BANK AT KIRKVILLE LOOTED OF $36,000.

Expert Burglars Drill the Safe and Carry Away $18,000 in Gold and Greenbacks and $18,000 in Government Bonds.

SEVERAL THOUSANDS IN SILVER LEFT BEHIND BY THE BANDITS.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MACON, Mo., Nov. 11.—Thirty-two thousand dollars is the booty of cracksmen who visited Kirksville last night.

The institution looted by the burglars was the Kirksville Savings Bank.

It is admitted that the thieves secured from $5000 to $8000 in money and rifled, among others, the safety deposit box of Samuel Reed of Carthage, Mo., contents unknown. It is reported that there were $15,000 in United States bonds in this box.

The bank opened its doors as usual this morning and will not be seriously affected by the loss. All the officials are at work on the case, but have no definite clew. The bank offers $10,000 reward for the capture of the burglars.

The robbers spurned silver, probably as too heavy to carry, and several thousand dollars of the white metal was left scattered about the floor.

The robbery was evidently committed by experts, whose work is pronounced by the safe experts who have examined the vault, as having been unusually clever.

Entrance to the bank must have been forced early in the night, as the work could not possibly have been done inside of several hours. The safe was of more than ordinary thickness, and must long have resisted the best of drills.

A hole was first drilled in the outer door of the safe, but it shows no sign of having been blown. The inner mechanism, it is evident, was overcome by tools, something unheard of with such a safe by the authorities of this vicinity.

There is absolutely no clew as to the identity or even the number of the burglars, nor as to the time of their coming to town, nor their method of carrying away the booty. No suspicious characters, nor strangers unaccounted for, have been in or about Kirksville for several days, and the robbery is shrouded in complete mystery from every point of inquiry.

Notification of the number and character of the bonds stolen has been sent to all banks, but beyond this almost hopeless move neither the bankers nor the authorities can yet take action.

The report of the loss received in Macon has not been directly confirmed by the bank officials, but it is known that the bank was the depository of large funds, which would easily aggregate the amount.

The Stock Ticker carries warning to-day to look out for $500 worth of the bonds stolen from the bank.

TRAINS COLLIDE ON A MOUNTAIN SIDE.

Five Trainmen Killed and a Number Severely Injured, but Passengers Escape Without Serious Wounds.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Nov. 11.—A heavy express train dashing down one of the steepest grades of the Pennsylvania mountains at thirty miles an hour, with useless brakes and no power to save; another coming at rapid pace, with the right of straight track and no apparent cause for fear; a collision at a curve and death. This is the story of wreck on the Lehigh Valley, near Newport Station, before daylight this morning.

The bodies of five trainmen lie in the debris; it is not believed that any of the passengers were seriously hurt.

The killed are:
WILLIAM TOXHEIMER, fireman.
FRED GLASSER, fireman.
J. C. M'CREGOR, express messenger, Easton.
JACOB ENGLEMAN, brakeman.
JOHN M'NALLY, engineer, Whithaven.

The list of injured is:
D. E. PRICE, engineer, New York; badly scalded.
JOHN ROHBLING, engineer, Wilkesbarre; badly scalded.
CHARLES MORGAN, express messenger; scalded about head.
JOHN SHANFIELD, brakeman; cut about head.

The trains in collision were the Buffalo express, going west, and the New York and Buffalo express, going east. The trains were to pass on Wilkesbarre Mountain.

The Buffalo Express was in charge of Engineer Rohbling, one of the oldest engineers on the road, and one whose bravery had been proved by many acts only surpassed by his courage and self-sacrifice to-day.

Rohbling was to stop on a siding on the mountain and give the east-bound train the right of way.

As he neared the siding he applied the airbrakes. They would not work. The other train was almost due. Frantically he whistled for the hand brakes. The train was going at a rate of 30 miles an hour.

There was a moment of suspense. He knew that his whistle was being obeyed, but there was no slacking in the speed of the train. It moved only faster.

A windstorm raged on the mountain side and deluged the cab with forest leaves. Then he knew why the hand brakes had failed.

In another moment the crossing turned up before his eyes, dipped and was lost. The wheels of the locomotive slipped under the firm reverse of the lever, but the speed of the train was only thus accelerated. The engineer dropped sand; it was lost and useless in the leaves which covered the rails till they were out of sand. He alternately reversed and pushed ahead with the lever, but nothing would cause the brakes to catch. On over the stripped foliage the train slipped even faster, speeding to death that did not daunt the man at the throttle.

Then a curve appeared. The coming of another locomotive, laboriously puffing up grade, could be heard, but none there could see the Moloch rushing down upon them. Only the grave man in the swirling cab and the frightened fireman, who clung to its sides beside his superior, knew how near death.

Blast after blast of shrillest warning sounded Rohbling, and it was this man, who defied death at his post, that saved a hundred lives. The warning was heard and heeded; the up-coming train stopped in the track. The fatal meeting could not be avoided, but resistance was reduced and the passenger train was saved annihilation. Almost before he knew why he had stopped a crash came and the engineer of the east-bound train lay dead under his overturned locomotive in a cut.

There, too, lay Rohbling, wounded and scalded, but still with a chance for the life he had so bravely fought to save for others.

Nearly all the passengers on both trains were asleep. Many of these were thrown out of their berths by the shock.

The engines and baggage and express cars were piled up in a heap in the cut. The passengers rushed from the cars on hearing the cries of the injured trainmen in the wreck. It was almost impossible to render any assistance. Flagmen hastened to the nearest telegraph office and sent word to Wilkesbarre.

A wrecking train with a number of physicians and two clergymen were at once sent to the scene of the wreck. As soon as possible the dead and injured were taken from under the engine and cars.

The train going east consisted of an express car, combination baggage, one day coach and four Pullmans. The passengers were brought to this city and later a train was made up and sent over the "cut-off" branch road. The road is completely blocked and will not be cleared for some hours.

COULDN'T LOSE EACH OTHER.

Edwin Moritz Eloped With a Kentucky Girl.

ONE CASE OF MALARIA THAT LED TO LOVE.

ST. LOUISAN WOOED AND WON MISS MARY ELKIN OF STANFORD.

HE HAD GONE AFTER A CONSTRUCTION CONTRACT.

He Will Return to This City With a Matrimonial Bargain in Addition to His Business Success.

Whether he figured successfully is not a part of this story. That he figured successfully on a matrimonial contract, which was not in his instructions from his office, is the interesting feature of Mr. Moritz's trip.

The matrimonial contract was entered into hastily, without the knowledge of the friends of either party, and with the legal assistance of Magistrate House of that gretna green of love-stricken Kentucky couples—Jeffersonville, Ind.

The other party to the contract was Miss Mary Elkin of Stanford, Ky., a Blue Grass belle, whose fame for beauty, withal she is only 17, had spread over several counties.

The negotiations preceding the signing of the contract were short and impetuous, as befitting a high-spirited St. Louisan wooing a Kentucky girl.

They met in August and were married Thursday. In the language of Mr. Wade H. Bush, Miss Elkin's cousin, "After they met, they couldn't lose each other."

The history of this courtship and marriage shows strikingly how Cupid uses the most commonplace incidents of life to bring two hearts together.

In this case it was malaria that led to love. Mr. Moritz may thank a badly disordered liver for the prize he has won.

Last August Mr. Moritz was afflicted with a bad case of malaria. His friend, Mr. Wade H. Bush, who is employed in an abstract office on North Ninth street, was also a sufferer from malaria.

Mr. Moritz went to Michigan and Mr. Bush went to his old Kentucky home at Lancaster. Lancaster is only a few miles from Stanford, Miss Elkins' home.

After Mr. Moritz had been in Michigan a short time he telegraphed Mr. Bush:

"Any malaria down there?"

"No; come down," replied Mr. Bush, by wire.

As quick as steam could carry him, Mr. Moritz traveled to Lancaster. Cupid had arranged all this, of course, and Cupid carried out the programme with elaborate regard for appropriate detail.

The very day Mr. Moritz reached Lancaster, Miss Mary Elkin arrived there, to visit her cousins. Of course it was only a coincidence to mortals, but to Cupid it was a well laid trap to snare hearts.

From that time Mr. Moritz and Miss Elkin, according to Mr. Bush, "couldn't lose each other."

The hazy air, the humming of birds and bees, the caressing breezes, the bursting flowers of that Kentucky Arcadia, are the natural accompaniments of love, and this wooing proceeded with all the joyousness and ease of the murmuring brook beside which the twain sat in sweet converse. Nobody heard Mr. Moritz say anything about malaria after he arrived. The disease had done its work, and Cupid had no further use for it.

Before Mr. Moritz' vacation ended he had declared love and the maid had surrendered. They told her father and mother. These objected to the early marriage that Mr. Moritz asked, because of their daughter's youth. The young people gave seeming consent, and Mr. Moritz came to St. Louis.

Nov. 2 he started for Cincinnati to figure on that contract. When he told his friend, Mr. Bush, good-by, the latter said laughingly:

"I believe you'll be a married man when you come back."

After the contract was figured on, Mr. Moritz went to Stanford, Ky. He wrote his friend Mr. Bush that he was there.

Thursday the couple eloped to Jeffersonville, Ind., and were married. It is not known when they will reach St. Louis.

"I have no doubt," said Mr. Bush, "that they have been forgiven and blessed. There was no real objection. Mary's parents were only desirous that the marriage be postponed at least a year, on account of her youth. I want to deny the report that Moritz was engaged to a girl in St. Louis. That is false. I can't help regretting this hasty marriage, on my own account, because I expected to be best man, and I have lost that pleasure."

Mr. Moritz lives with his parents at 5885 Bartmer avenue.

LOST HER LIFE FOR A NICKEL.

DROPPED FIVE CENTS AND STOPPED TO GET IT.

MOUND CITY LINE STREET CAR CRUSHED HER LEG OFF AT THE HIP.

SHE WAS GOING AN ERRAND TO THE GROCERY STORE.

Motorman Unable to Reverse; the Fender Pushed Over the Child's Body and the Wheels Mangled Her.

Joyfully she started to the grocery store about 9 o'clock Friday morning on an errand for her mother, proud because she was given the privilege of going shopping alone, only to meet a cruel fate under the fender and wheels of Mound City electric car No. 425.

Almost in front of her home, No. 1105 North Ninth street, the little girl was run down by the car before the eyes of many women who are wont to congregate on the sidewalks in that neighborhood.

In crossing the street Josie dropped a 5-cent piece which she carried for buying purposes, and it fell in the soft mud. Motorman W. E. Heady of No. 2109 North Jefferson avenue passed the Carr street crossing with brakes set, but started the car northward. It was too late to stop the car on the slippery track, and the child was knocked down. Heady dropped the fender, but was unable to reverse the power, and the helpless girl was drawn under the motor.

Misses Annie and Yetta Survinsky, sisters, who were in charge of the grocery at Ninth and Carr streets, towards which the unfortunate girl was headed, screamed to her to look out for the car, but their well-meant warning was fruitless.

The little girl's screams rent the air, as soon as she was struck, reaching her mother's cares, and bringing to the spot hundreds of people whose sympathy went out to the child, whose curls were mixed with mud, whose blue eyes looked appealingly upward and whose pale face showed too plainly the shock she had sustained.

Josie was carried into a near by drug store by Officers Lang and Healy. Dr. M. L. De Yorkin gave prompt attendance, reinforced soon after by Dr. A. V. L. Brokaw. Both surgeons said that her recovery was hardly probable. The entire leg had been severed close to the hip and after their patient rallied somewhat she was sent to St. John's Hospital in a carriage.

Before the conveyance came a dozen Italian women crowded into the drug store and their wails were pitiful. The child gazed blankly at her mother and relatives, conscious and not tearful. Some thoughtful bystander gave her a bag full of cookies and Josie clasped them to her side and ate one while her mother and sister bent over her in mute despair.

"The motorman lost his head when he saw the child's danger and kept his car going forward instead of backing it up," said Meyer Kaemens of 929 North High street.

"The women's screams seemed to get the motorman rattled," said M. Siegel of 1226 North Eighth street.

Thomas O'Brien of 4150 Lexington avenue was the conductor.

The mangled child is the daughter of Bart Gillardi, a fruit dealer. She was the youngest member of the family.

IT IS THE MARIA TERESA.

Wreckers Found the Warship Stranded on Cat Island.

NASSAU, N. P., Nov. 11.—Wreckers who have arrived here have brought with them stores from the stranded vessel off Cat Island which establishes beyond a doubt that she is the Infanta Maria Teresa. As the vessel is looked upon as being a derelict, the wreckers claim the right to seize the stores which can be saved. They report that the water is up to her between decks, that she has a list to starboard, which side is damaged, and that she is dismantled. The vessel lies between two reefs, on a smooth bottom, and has her anchor out.

Albert O'Haver and Mrs. E. F. Hudson left the latter's home, 2526 North Ninth street, early Friday morning. They had not returned at noon. It was said they had gone to get married.

The widow still believes O'Haver's story of his accident and his suddenly acquired wealth.

The Post-Dispatch Friday sent in every direction in an effort to learn O'Haver's record. At 1 o'clock this afternoon the mystery was cleared by a dispatch from Hannibal, Mo.

It is proven that the widow Hudson is dealing with a very smooth person who has quite a police record.

His career is related in Chapter XVI today.

SYNOPSIS PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

(The Strange Courtship of Albert O'Haver and the Widow Hudson, as Related by the Principals.)

In December, 1895, Albert O'Haver was injured in a collision on the M., K. & T. at Texas Junction. November, 1898, found him a conductor on the K. line, in love with Mrs. E. F. Hudson, his landlady, at 2526 North Ninth street, and just in receipt of $3000 in settlement of his claim against the M., K. & T. for injuries received. The morning of Nov. 2 found O'Haver and Mrs. Hudson at a big dry goods house buying the trousseau. Mrs. Hudson, a nice looking lady of 33, took delight in the finery about her, and everything she admired O'Haver bought. When he stopped the bill amounted to $2008.36. O'Haver ordered the goods sent to the Hudson home C. O. D.

The wedding was to occur that night, but the goods did not come; they were held until O'Haver should pay the bill. The morning of the 3d O'Haver disappeared. The widow became hysterical, and Dr. Otto I. Claus, 2625 North Ninth street, was called.

O'Haver, so he says, was struck by a Southern Electric car and rendered unconscious. When he awoke he was in a strange place, and a man, who said he was Dr. Johnson, bent over him. The doctor told him he had been unconscious two days and that his skull had been trephined for fracture. The doctor told him he had found $2900 in cash in his belt and sent him to St. Mary's Infirmary.

The afternoon of the 5th Mrs. Hudson received a note from O'Haver. He was at St. Mary's Infirmary and asked her to come to him.

Nov. 7 O'Haver, a huge bandage on his head, reappeared at the Hudson home. He had a letter from Dr. Johnson to prove he had been injured, and Mrs. Hudson accepted the story and was restored to happiness.

CHAPTER VIII.

The Mysterious Dr. Johnson.

The morning of Nov. 7 a man calling himself Dr. Johnson telephoned Dr. Otto F. Claus, 2625 North Ninth street, that he had a patient, one Albert O'Haver, he wanted to turn over to him. The patient had a fracture of the skull and would be at Dr. Claus' office at 9 o'clock the next morning. Dr. Johnson would also be there. At 9 o'clock the next morning O'Haver walked in Dr. Claus' office, but Dr. Johnson did not come. Later in the day "Dr. Johnson" called Dr. Claus to the phone and said he had been unavoidably detained and would be there the next morning. He also volunteered to make a statement for the press of O'Haver's accident. At 9 the next morning (Thursday) Dr. Claus, O'Haver and a Post-Dispatch reporter awaited Dr. Johnson. He did not come. At 11 o'clock "Dr. Johnson" telephoned to the Post-Dispatch that he would call at the office at noon and tell of O'Haver's accident. He did not come. At 10 o'clock O'Haver called at the Post-Dispatch office and said he had an engagement with Dr. Johnson to meet him at the Post-Dispatch office at 2 o'clock. He waited, but Dr. Johnson did not come.

CHAPTER IX.

A Relative Who Wishes He Wasn't.

Charles O'Haver, a clerk for the Missouri Pacific Railway, is related to Albert O'Haver. He was located by a Post-Dispatch reporter Thursday evening.

At the general offices of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, in the Equitable building, nothing was known at first of a man named Charles O'Haver. But the time-keeper finally said: "Well, if you have a message for Charley, you might call at the Seventh and Poplar street office.

S. B. Schuyler, Assistant General Auditor of the road, is in charge of a large clerical force there. He was pouring over a batch of correspondence when the reporter entered. He had evidently divined his visitor's mission, for when asked about Charles O'Haver, he promptly replied:

"There is no such man in our employ."

"The information came from headquarters," ventured the reporter.

"Oh, I was mistaken," said the accountant. "The man you are looking for does work here."

Then Mr Schuyler stepped into the outer office and summoned his chief clerk. Scarcely ten seconds had elapsed before a copy of the Post-Dispatch was produced.

Mr. Schuyler returned to his private sanctum, and said to the reporter:

"You cannot see O'Haver to-day. He is very busy, and besides it would be a breach of the rules to grant your request. Of course, you understand my position."

Six minutes afterward the reporter appeared before Mr. C. G. Warner, vice-president and general manager of the Missouri Pacific Railway. The result of this interview was an order to a colored porter: "Telephone Mr. Schuyler to let the Post-Dispatch reporter see Charles O'Haver."

Another intermission followed. Then the reporter greeted Mr. Schuyler again.

"Please see Mr. Curtis," he said.

Mr. O'Haver was at last produced. Before the reporter had spoken Mr. O'Haver said:

"Now, I don't want to be discourteous, but I will not say a word about this unfortunate matter."

"How long has your brother been away from home?" he was asked.

"O, Albert is not my brother. He's only a relative. But I haven't seen him for 15 years, and in that time I have heard nothing about him, good, bad or indifferent. I rather wish Albert was not kin of mine."

CHAPTER X.

O'Haver Revisits the Store.

At 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon O'Haver walked into the dry goods store where he had ordered the trousseau. It was his first appearance there since the goods were ordered. He asked to see someone in authority and conversed at some of the counters where he had ordered goods. Then he was directed to the office on the second floor. He had scarcely been in the store five minutes when all the employes knew it. He was pointed out to those who did not know him and was regarded with more interest than a visiting president. In the office he met several men connected with the management. He asked them why his goods had not been delivered, and when they told him so much goods could not be sent out until the bill was paid O'Haver seemed to think it all right and went in to tell them of his accident and why he had not called before. He asked them if the goods were still ready for delivery, and when told they were he said he would go home and come right down with the money. Then he left.

CHAPTER XI.

The Hudson Door Closed.

The Hudson home at 2526 North Ninth street was closed to visitors Friday morning. The housekeeper who responded to a reporter's knock said Mr. O'Haver and Mrs. Hudson left the house early in the morning. She did not know where they had gone. She was sure they had gone. No, the reporter could not come in. She did not know whether O'Haver and Mrs. Hudson had been married or not; she did not know whether they left no early in the morning to be married. They had not told her. No, the reporter could not come in and wait their return. She did not know why the door was wide open to reporters Thursday and closed to them Friday.

CHAPTER XII.

O'Haver's Story of the $3000.

O'Haver's story of how he got his $3000 was read in the Post-Dispatch with much interest by the M., K. & T. people. When a reporter called at the claim department offices Friday morning he found an employe already examining the records to learn if O'Haver's story were true. The department has no recollection of the case, nor could any record of it be found. There was nothing upon the record of a collision or an accident of any sort on the M., K. & T. at Texas Junction in December, or any other month of the autumn of 1895 or any other autumn since the line into Texas Junction has been built. There was absolutely nothing to substantiate O'Haver's story. The department officials said he surely made a mistake in the name of the road.

CHAPTER XIII.

O'Haver Unknown on the "K" Line.

At the K Line office O'Haver's story, as it was published in the Post-Dispatch Thursday night, created great interest. Both there and at the M., K. & T. offices the railroad men declared his story one of the most plausible they ever heard, and they had no suspicion that it might be untrue until an investigation showed the things he told unproven by the records. At the K Line offices interest in the man and his peculiar story prompted them to look him up. In his story he said he was a conductor running between St. Louis and Hannibal. Telegraphic communication with the Division Superintendent and Division Train Dispatchers Friday morning elicited the information that O'Haver is unknown on the K Line and must certainly have made a mistake in the road.

CHAPTER XIV.

O'Haver as a Mystery.

Albert O'Haver, the man who would buy a $2900 trousseau for his bride, is a mystery. Investigation into the stories he tells prove him not to be what he says he is. Since his picture was published in the Post-Dispatch several persons have called at the office and volunteered information concerning O'Haver. One visitor, who professes to know the man well, says he is really Albert O'Haver, but that he is not a railroad conductor and was never hurt in an M., K. &

SPAIN LOOKS TO THE GERMAM EMPEROR.

The Kaiser Suggested as the Arbitrator of the Question of the Disposition of the Philippines.

COMMISSIONER RIOS INFORMS SAGASTA OF AMERICA'S DEMAND.

His Letter Read at the Cabinet Council Which Meets Again This Evening and Decides Upon the Reply of the Spanish Government.

MADRID, Nov. 11.—The Heraldo this morning asserts that the Spanish Government has resolved to maintain Spanish sovereignty in the Philippine Islands, and that it has been suggested that Emperor William of Germany, who is expected to visit Cadiz and Madrid soon, on his way back to Germany from the Holy Land, be asked to arbitrate the question in dispute between Spain and the United States in the event of the peace commissions of the respective countries now in session in Paris failing to come to an agreement upon the terms of the proposed treaty of peace.

The Queen Regent presided at the Cabinet Council held to-day. Premier Sagasta read a letter from Senor Rios, President of the Spanish Peace Commission, announcing that the American Peace Commissioners had refused to recognize the Cuban debt and had excepted the Philippine Islands. The Cabinet Council will meet again this evening and decide upon a reply.

Admiral Camara's squadron has been ordered to Cadiz with full speed, in view of the approaching visit of Emperor William of Germany to that port.

The Spanish steamer, Miguel Gallart, which left Neuvitas, Cuba, about Oct. 24, has arrived at Barcelona with repatriated Spanish troops on board. During the voyage across the Atlantic 23 men died and on arriving here 100 men were seriously ill, suffering from exhaustion due to lack of food.

According to a dispatch to the Associated Press from Baalbek, Syria, last night, the Emperor and Empress of Germany will start for Beyrout this morning, where they will embark for Trieste, Austria. It is reasonable to suppose that if the Emperor goes to Trieste, which is at the head of the Adriatic, he will land there and travel by rail to Berlin, instead of going home by sea, and incidentally touching at Cadiz and possibly visiting Madrid.

INSURGENTS TAKE AN ISLAND.

Negros, One of the Philippines, Captured and Siege of Iloilo On.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Advices have been received at the office in this city of the Philippine Commercial Co., saying that the insurgents have taken the island of Negros, one of the Philippine group, separated by narrow channels from Panay and Zebu and that they are besieging Iloilo, capital of the island of Panay and the second largest port in the Philippines.

DO NOT EXPECT A RUPTURE.

The Next Meeting of the Commission May Be Decisive.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Government officials do not look for a rupture of peace negotiations at Paris, but do expect that the next joint meeting of the commissioners will produce something decisive. An Administration official says that in case of the withdrawal of the Spanish commissioners, the United States Government would complete the military occupation of the Philippines and would take such steps as it might deem advisable for the protection of this country's rights in the far East.

From Mr. Day, the officials have learned that the American commissioners presented the reply to the Spanish refusal to surrender the islands, and it is expected that now the Administration has been so satisfactorily indorsed by the country, the Spaniards will appreciate the hopelessness of their position and accede to the demands of this Government.

A suggestion has been thrown out by the Administration that instead of paying Spain $40,000,000 as an indemnity for the cession of the Philippine Islands to the United States, President McKinley intends to reimburse her only for the debt of about $1,000,000, contracted for public improvements. This action is said to be due to the sentiment expressed by the elections in opposition to the payment of $40,000,000. What will be paid by the United States, according to the present intention of the President, is the debt contracted by Spain for the establishment of lighthouses, harbor improvements and public buildings. All told this does not amount to a very large sum, being fixed at about $1,000,000.

Friends of Spain in the diplomatic corps say that it is an outrage for the President to offer such a small sum.

It is not believed in official circles here that Spain will withdraw her commissioners from Paris. She has no desire to lose the Canary Islands, and she is apprehensive that in case of resumption of hostilities the American Government would seize and perhaps hold them.

NO FEAR OF TROOPS.

THE MILITIA UNABLE TO SUPPRESS DISORDER AT PANA.

RECKLESS USE OF WEAPONS.

The Cottages of White Miners Fired Into Last Night, and the Blame Laid to the Negroes.

PANA, Ill., Nov. 11.—The imported negro non-union miners here are becoming reckless and the union white miners are growing restless. Troop B of Bloomington remains on duty here, but almost nightly in the "Flat Hall" district the negro residents practice shooting at any white man that passes through. The negroes have been heavily armed by the mine operators. Last night the residences of several white miners were shot into, it is supposed by negro miners. A white widow's cottage was pierced repeatedly by bullets, several charges barely missing her three children. The militia say they cannot apprehend the culprits. Capt. T. P. Butler, in command, is apparently acting entirely under orders of Sheriff Coburn and not following the instructions of Gov. Tanner, given before election. Capt. Butler, when asked to disarm the negroes, said it was useless, for the sheriff would arm them again. It is reported that a large contingent of outside union white miners will soon arrive in Pana. A consignment of 100 rifles was received here to-day for citizens who intend protecting their property, claiming no protection is given them by the sheriff or troops.

DOESN'T WANT TO TESTIFY.

Attorney Ramsey of the Wabash Asks a Writ of Prohibition.

Attorney Joseph Ramsey, Jr., counsel for the Wabash Railroad, does not wish to explain the affidavit he filed in the Circuit Court of Jackson County for a change of venue in a damage suit. Judge Henry presides there.

A Mrs. Wilkinson was given a verdict for $15,000 in that court against the road. A new trial was granted the defendants and Mr. Ramsey asked for a change of venue. That will be passed upon Saturday. The attorney applied Friday to Judge Zachritz for a writ of prohibition against Karl Kimmel, who, he claims, is going to put him on the stand for examination regarding the affidavit filed in support of the application for a change of venue.

COULDN'T BE PROSECUTED.

An Attempt to Cause the Arrest of a Voter Failed.

George F. Decker, Republican challenger in the Fourth Precinct of the Fourth Ward in the recent election, called at the Four Courts Friday morning and applied for a warrant against Joseph Jordan, who is charged with illegal voting. It is alleged that Jordan cast one Democratic ballot under his own registration and then returned to the same polls later in the day and attempted to vote in the name of another person, but was detected before he voted.

Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Johnson declined to issue the warrant, holding that so long as Jordan did not succeed in consummating his attempt, he could not be prosecuted.

Will of Louisa Betz.

Louisa Betz's will was filed in the Probate Court Friday. To Fred and Hedwig Betz, Flora, Edna and Edward Noll, grandchildren, is left $150 each; to the son-in-law August Noll, is given $500; to the daughter, Louisa Pfund, all the testator's personal effects and house and lot in St. Louis. William Pfund is named executor.

MURDERED THREE PERSONS.

Kentucky Tragedy the Result of Domestic Troubles.

SCOTTSBURG, Ind., Nov. 11.—A telegram received by F. McClellan of this city early this morning from Glasgow, Ky., states that last night his brother-in-law, Robert Brown, shot and killed his father, Louis McClellan, his mother and sister, Bertha, and dangerously wounded his brother. The tragedy was the result of family troubles. They live in the country four miles from Glasgow. Brown escaped. The family formerly resided in this county.

A report has been received that officers have corraled Brown in a barn, and that he will be captured.

REFUSED PASSPORTS.

American Missionaries Traveling in Turkey Without Governmental Permission.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Nov. 11.—The American Board of Foreign Missions received word yesterday that a party of missionaries, some returning to their homes in Turkey, others going out for the first time, all having been refused passports by the Turkish Government, are just starting for the interior without them, but under the special escort of a representative of the United States legation.

These missionaries are Mrs. John K. Browne of Cambridgeport, returning to her husband and home at Harpoot; Mrs. C. F. Gates of Chicago, whose husband, Dr. Gates, is president of Euphrates College at Harpoot; Miss Theresa L. Huntington of Milton and Miss Laura Ellsworth of Barron, Wis., both going to Harpoot for the first time as teachers in Euphrates College for Girls; Mrs. Robert S. Stapleton, M. D., of Farmers' Creek, Mich., going to join her husband at Erzeroum for educational work in the Mission High School.

This is the first time such passports have been refused missionaries of the board. The American board fears trouble in the interior of Asiatic Turkey.

Brothers Charged With Murder.

QUINCY, Ill., Nov. 11.—The Coroner's jury returned a verdict attributing the death of Michael J. Wing Monday to rough treatment at the hands of Charles and Albert Davison. The brothers were held without bail.

THINK OF US—

WHENEVER you think of Jewelry (in its broadest sense), of Diamonds, of Watches, of Silverware and the numerous other goods in which we deal, we want the name of Mermod & Jaccard linked to them—because we offer the best and the most for your money.

If the truth were known as widely as it should be, millions of people would atways associate our name with these goods. We mean that millions shall link our name with these goods and come or send here for them because we offer the best and give the most for your money.

Buying time extraordinary is but a little way off now and all eyes and all steps should be turned Mermod-Jaccard-ward—for everything in our line.

The best Jewelry, Silversmith, etc., methods have been evolved within the last third of a century or so—the special features of which originated under this roof.

So when you think of Jewelry, Diamonds, Watches, Silverware, fine Potteries, and the other needed goods in which we deal, think of Mermod & Jaccard, and think of what you will save in dealing with us.

In our special sale, which ends to-morrow (Saturday) evening—of Diamonds, Wedding Silver and Society Stationery — three departments in which we easily excel—we are offering special inducements and our trade is very large.

That "something very unusual ahead" will be told about in next Sunday's papers.

FIRM HANDS IN WILMINGTON

New Government Seems to Have Thorough Control.

NEGRO LEADERS ARE NOW BEING DEPORTED.

"GO, OR BE LYNCHED," IS, IN BRIEF, THE ORDER THAT THEY MUST OBEY.

MORE SOUTH CAROLINA NEGROES ARE VICTIMS.

Woods Still Being Searched by Large Bodies of Armed Men and the Tolberts Forced to Leave Their Homes.

WILMINGTON, N. C., Nov. 11.—The complete change in the municipal government effected last night with some suddenness, but great unanimity, has placed men in control of local affairs representing the best elements of the city. Firm hands are now holding in restraint all classes which threaten disorder.

The new officials were called upon almost immediately to make good their promise to preserve order. A big lynching party was planned for last night and it required all the power that the new mayor and his associates could exert to prevent it. Six negroes were in jail, who had been arrested during the excitement of the day. One was a prominent leader, Thomas Miller, who was charged with declaring that he would wash his hands in a white man's blood before night. Another was A. R. Bryant charged with being a dangerous character. The others were less prominent, but had been under the ban of the whites for conduct calculated to incite trouble.

Mayor Waddell and his associates put a veto upon the proposed lynching. They said that order was restored and a period in Wilmington from this time and would begin immediately. The would-be lynchers were so insistent that the Mayor called out a guard and kept the jail surrounded all night.

This morning the six negroes were taken out and escorted to the north-bound train by a detachment of militia, to be banished from the city. The citizens cheered as they saw them going, for they considered their departure conducive to peace in the future. The men were started for Richmond.

This is but the beginning of a general movement to rid the town of the turbulent negro leaders. It is not proposed to use violence, but to send them away with instructions not to return.

After the street battles yesterday it became apparent that some new form of rule for the city was necessary. The Mayor and Chief of Police did not dare to interfere, and, half in fear of their own lives, expressed willingness to accede to the demands made in mass meeting Wednesday and resign. Accordingly the Committee of Twenty-five marched to the City Hall and took peaceable possession.

The City Councilmen resigned, one by one, and as each Councilman vacated, his associates elected his successor until the whole body was reorganized, prominent business men being chosen on the board. Then the new Council elected a Mayor and Chief of Police. Former Representative Waddell, Chairman of the Committee of Twenty-five, was made Mayor, and E. G. Parmelee Chief of Police.

The government swore in 250 special policemen and immediately took control of the town, with orders to restrain all acts of lawlessness, whether on the part of whites or blacks.

The guards and patrols were re-established for the night.

"We have filled the hall with them, treated them with every possible consideration, and now when they are needed they all sell themselves at $1 a head. The negroes can be bought like a bushel of potatoes or a basket of spinach. The Republican party owes them nothing from now on."

Last year Mr. Yost had negroes employed for several months at $3 a day making the assessment. He is selecting white men exclusively to do this year's work.

Superintendent of Streets Sloan laid off his negro clerk, L. W. Spencer, and every negro street sweeper yesterday. Auditor Cecil will drop his negro deputy, James Cole.

SORE AT THE NEGROES.

Republican Officeholders Will Discharge Every Black Assistant.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 11.—The Republican city administration is revenging itself on the negroes for their generous support of the Democratic ticket in this city by ousting all the colored men in the employ of the city. Even Nelson Crews, the famous colored orator, it is said, is to be dropped as Clerk of the Police Court, or at least his position will be made so uncomfortable that he will be glad to quit.

County Chairman Charles Yost, who is also City Assessor, is perhaps the sorest man at the City Hall.

"The negroes be damned," said Yost.

MAY DISFRANCHISE THE BLACKS

Democrats Also Contemplate Impeachment of Gov. Russell.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Senator Butler (Pop.) will give place to a Democrat as a result of the overturn in North Carolina. The Legislature is controlled by the Democrats, and Butler will be retired. Josephus Daniels, the Democratic National Committeeman from North Carolina, is prominently mentioned for the place.

The Legislature having gone heavily Democratic, it is not unlikely that Gov. Russell will be impeached. This, it is thought, will certainly be done if the requisite two-thirds Democratic majority be returned.

Meantime a constitutional amendment disfranchising negroes will, it is believed, be submitted to the people of North Carolina.

STILL HUNTING THE NEGROES.

South Carolina Election Trouble Has Caused Probably Seventeen Deaths.

GREENWOOD, S. C., Nov. 11.—Eight negroes are known to have been killed at Phenix in two days as the result of a race riot precipitated there on election day by the killing of Mr. Etnridge, a prominent white man.

For miles around the country is alive with armed white men searching for participants in the murder of Ethridge. Suspected negroes have been shot down and their bodies left lying where they fell until their friends or relatives get a chance to give them burial. Many others are missing, and it is believed they are dead in the woods.

The general opinion here is that 12 to 15 negroes have been killed and a large number wounded. Two white men, it is believed, will die as a result of their wounds.

The list of known dead and wounded is as follows:

J. L. Ethridge, white; killed at the polls.

Thomas Tolbert, white; mortally wounded.

Wade Hampton McKinney, negro; dead.

Jesse Williams, negro; dead.

Drayton Watts, negro; dead.

"Lum" Jackson, negro; dead.

Essex Harrison, negro; dead.

Ben Collins, negro; dead.

Sidney Tolbert, white, 15 years old; dangerously wounded.

John R. Tolbert, white, Collector of the Port of Charleston, and chairman of the Republican State Executive Committee; wounded.

Stuart Miller, white; mortally wounded.

Crewell Fleming, white; shot in the shoulder.

M. J. Younger; wounded.

Cleave Armstrong, white, who tried to protect the negroes; wounded.

Essex Harrison, who, it is said, admitted having been with the party of negroes which killed Ethridge, was yesterday marched down the road by 15 men to the woods where the bodies of four negroes had laid in a pile from the preceding day, and was riddled with bullets just as he reached them, his body falling on those who had died ahead of him.

John R. Tolbert, Collector of the Port at Charleston, and Joseph Tolbert have left the county quietly and are going to Charleston. Reed Tolbert has gone to Greenville. Ezra Tolbert is quartered with friends. His son was shot, and this fact, together with the plea that he is a nonpartisan, has nine children and a good Democratic wife, has saved him from death. A committee waited on J. W. Tolbert, Assistant Postmaster at McCormick's, and asked him to get out of that town. He left.

Several in the mob to-day wanted to burn Tolbert's property, but cooler counsel prevailed and it was not done. The Tolberts are of a good family. They were fine Southern soldiers, but have been Republican since the war.

Ben Collins, colored, was killed last night near Phenix. He is said to have fired one pistol into the voting precinct and reached for another weapon. He was left on the roadside, dead.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Nov. 11.—John R. Tolbert, the father of all the men figuring in the Phenix affair, and his son Joe are in this city. Albert Tolbert's body is covered with wounds. Prompt arrest and the securing of his incarceration in the State Prison for the present has probably saved his life.

Word has been received in Columbia from Phoenix to hold John R. Tolbert and his son, Sidney, who are in the penitentiary there. The telegram says that affidavits implicating the Tolberts in the recent race troubles are on the way to Columbia and it is now believed that it is the intention to bring the Tolberts back to Phoenix City. If this is done, it is feared further trouble will result, although leading citizens are deprecating any further violence.

DASHED INTO A CAR.

Runaway Horses Collided With a Cass Avenue Train.

A runaway team of horses dashed into south-bound Cass avenue car No. 19 on Eighth street, between Morgan street and Franklin avenue, Friday morning, shortly after 11 o'clock.

The driver, Charles Kopp, was thrown to the ground and seriously bruised.

The car was well filled with passengers and a panic ensued. The force of the collision shattered window glasses and otherwise wrecked the car to the extent of $100. The wagon was also partially demolished. None of the passengers in the car were injured beyond severe fright. The car was in charge of Conductor John Peterson and Motorman Charles Bedtson. The horses and wagon belong to the Hasse Soap Co.

Kopp, the injured driver, was attended at a drug store, after which he was taken to his home, 5017 Benedict street. The accident blockaded traffic for several minutes.

THOROUGH PROBING AT VIRDEN

Grand Jury Has Already Summoned Over 100 Witnesses.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CARLINVILLE, Ill., Nov. 11.—That the Virden riot will be thoroughly probed is now manifest. Over 100 witnesses have been subponaed by the grand jury and as the evidence discloses other persons who were connected with or know anything of the affair writs summoning them to appear are at once issued.

There are new legal moves on foot in which the Chicago-Virden Coal Company, the miners, through their attorneys, and the C. & A. Railroad figure. There is no telling where it will all end. The coal company seems determined to indict every striker implicated in the battle. On the other hand Attorney Mooney, for the strikers, declares that President Loucks, Manager Lukens and Agent York of the coal company are guilty of conspiracy to commit murder.

The grand jury is moving slowly but thoroughly, and it is confidently expected that between the pressure brought by both sides the State will be enabled to get to the bottom of the truth. It has leaked out that the State has witnesses in store who will give an aspect to the investigation not yet known.

WHAT WILL THEY DO WITH HER?

The Election of Woman in Michigan Puzzles the State Authorities.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WEST BRANCH, Mich., Nov. 11.—The nomination of Mrs. Merrie L. Abbott of this place, which began as a joke at the Silver Democratic Convention, has resulted in her election and brought out a serious question as to whether or not she can serve.

Mrs. Abbott and the voters of Ogenaw County took the nomination very seriously, and she started out on a canvass which paralyzed the political war horses of the county. Mrs. Abbott is young, good looking and very bright, and her speeches apparently convinced the voters that she was just the person to serve as Prosecuting Attorney.

While the county went 321 for Pingree and elected every Republican on the county ticket except the County Clerk, she had votes enough to win. Attorney-General Fred A. Maynard says she will not be permitted to take the oath until the Supreme Court gives permission.

Mrs. Abbott says the electors have chosen her, and that she proposes to administer the law department of Ogenaw County better than it was ever done before.

IN CONTEMPT OF COURT.

Charles A. Tyrrell Ordered to Appear and Show Cause.

Judge Fisher issued an order Friday commanding Charles A. Tyrrell to come into court Nov. 21 and show cause why he should not be punished for contempt.

Tyrrell was divorced from Jennie L. Tyrrell on Nov. 26, 1897. He was granted the custody of the two children—Mabel, aged 9, and Hazel, aged 7. The stipulation was made that the mother should see them every Saturday afternoon.

She reported to Judge Fisher that the father refused to obey the court and was keeping the little girls from her.

BODY IN A BAKEOVEN.

Vagrant Pole Tries to Kill the Man Who Discovered His First Crime.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—A sensational murder was committed in North London Bakery this morning.

A homeless Pole, named Schneider, was given a night's lodging in the bakehouse, and he murdered the baker's German assistant, throwing him inside the oven.

The baker, alarmed by the stench of the burning body, descended to the bakehouse, and Schneider tried to murder him also, clubbing him over the head and stabbing him in the chest. The shrieks of the baker brought the police to the spot, and Schneider was overpowered.

The bakehouse presented evidence of a frightful struggle having taken place there. It was splashed with blood and strewn with tufts of hair. The charred body of the baker's assistant was found in the oven. His skull had been smashed with a hatchet.

WIDOW HUDSON HAS BEEN VICTIMIZED.

T. wreck. Another says O'Haver is a member of a good family at Hannibal, Mo., and that he has well-to-do relatives at Ellendale, Mo.

O'Haver says he has no relatives about here. He is a man of not more than 30 years, is 6 feet tall and slight, weighs 160 pounds and has flashing black eyes, dark hair, a small black mustache and a dark complexion. He talks with an intelligence showing education. He is almost as much a mystery as Dr. Johnson, the man no one has seen and the only person who has looked upon the $3000 O'Haver wants to spend for a trousseau for his landlady.

CHAPTER XV.

The Trousseau Returns to the Shelves.

At the dry goods house where O'Haver and Mrs. Hudson selected and ordered the $3600 trousseau all hope of making the big sale has been finally abandoned. When O'Haver revisited the store Thursday afternoon he said he would return promptly at 3 o'clock with the money, but the afternoon passed and he did not come. Friday morning they gave him another chance, but he did not come, and orders were then given to replace the goods on the shelves. All of the beautiful gowns came out of their silken folds in the boxes and went back to their cases; the capes and cloaks and the jackets and the hundred and one things a woman so loves came sailing out of the parcels labeled, "Mrs. E. F. Hudson, 2526 North Ninth street," and were placed on the shelves. Not one little thing did they leave. Albert had not paid up, and all the magnificent trousseau went back in its place. All Friday O'Haver did not call at the store. He was as lacking in punctuality as the mysterious Dr. Johnson.

CHAPTER XVI.

The Mystery Cleared.

At 1 o'clock Friday afternoon the Post-Dispatch received a dispatch from Hannibal, Mo., that gives the record of Mrs. Hudson's fiancee. The message reads:

O'Haver was arrested, prosecuted and sent to the penitentiary in Illinois before the officers of Hannibal had an opportunity to arrest him. He came to Hannibal over three years ago and being a cousin of Chas. O'Haver, who was at that time auditor for the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railway Company, he obtained a suit of clothes from Little, Dave & Sam's clothing store by false statements. He told the clothiers that Charles O'Haver had sent him there and would pay for the suit. He then went into another store and stepping to a telephone told Dave & Sam that he was Charles O'Haver and for them to let Albert have the clothing on his credit. They did so and did not dectect the fraud for two weeks.

In the meantime O'Haver went to Pike County, Ill., obtained money from Conductor Steve Ryan of the Wabash under false pretenses. He cut a wide swath in Pike county, hired fine rigs and obtained money in various ways. He was finally arrested, prosecuted and sentenced to the Illinois penitentiary for a term of three years. He is well connected by family ties, but is a black sheep in the flock. When he came to Hannibal he represented himself as being a conductor on the Wabash but it was ascertained that he had never been in the employ of that company. His relatives in Hannibal ignore him.

APPEAL TO SUPREME COURT.

Flad Avenue Water Pipe Ordinance Will Go Higher.

Attorney-General Crow has carried his fight on the Flad avenue water pipe ordinance to the Supreme Court. The ordinance was adopted April 28, 1896, and appropriated $1060 for the relief of C. W. Rutledge, F. W. Mott, W. C. Uhre, Al Wenzlick, J. G. Zimmer and F. Louis Soldan, who were affected by the laying of the main on Flad avenue, from Grand to Vandeventer avenues.

The State sued the city on the ground that the ordinance was in violation of the charter. The Circuit Court decided in favor of the city. Friday Judge Fisher granted the State permission to appeal to the Supreme Court.

DEMOCRATS ASSERT THAT THE ANTI-REPUBLICANS HAVE ELECTED 186.

BUT INDICATIONS ARE AGAINST THIS CLAIM.

It Will Require Official Returns From Eight or Ten Congressional Districts to Determine the Exact Strength.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—It will require the official count in eight or ten congressional districts to determine the exact strength of each party in the next Congress.

The Democrats do not concede that the Republicans will be in control, but the indications to-day are that that party will have a small majority over all opposition—possibly 8 to 14.

Chairman Babcock of the Republican Congressional Committee has practically completed a list of the Representatives-elect to the Fifty-sixth Congress. The latest authentic advices received by the Republican committee indicate that two districts are in doubt yet, viz: The Second California and the Twelfth Texas. In both, however, Mr. Babcock concedes that the chances are favorable to the Democrats. He claims neither of them. Babcock's figures show the election of 185 straight Republicans 163 Democrats, 6 Populists and one Silver Republican. These figures do not include the two doubtful districts mentioned. Conceding these two districts to the Democrats as a means of reaching definite results, Mr. Babcock claims a certain majority of thirteen over all opposition. Little information of a definite nature has been received to-day by the Democratic Congressional Committee. Secretary Kerr maintained that the opposition to the Republicans would organize and control the next House of Representatives. His figur indicated that the opposition would have at least 180 votes and perhaps 181.

There is no question about the Senate. It is Republican.

ROOSEVELT'S WAR RECORD.

Croker Explains Why the Democrats Lost New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—"It was Roosevelt's war record that elected him. The chief cause of Van Wyck's defeat was the popularity of the soldier candidate. Had Roosevelt run for Governor a day after he returned from Cuba he would have been elected by 100,000 majority. Had the election been held a week later he would have been defeated by 25,000. If Admiral Dwey ran for President of the United States tomorrow on the Democratic ticket he would carry every State in the Union. Had Admiral Dewey opposed Roosevelt as the Democratic candidate for Governor the Republicans would have been overwhelmed."

"The Democracy of Greater New York," said Mr. Croker, "never did better. It gave 84,000 majority to the ticket. Flower was elected Governor when it gave only 49,000. Hill himself when a candidate never carried the territory by any such vote. The success of Capt. Chanler over Quigg illustrates the popularity of the soldier candidate. He won in a district that was Republican by 11,000 and carried it by a handsome majority."

"What else have you to say in regard to the conduct of the campaign outside of the city?"

"I had nothing to do with the campaign outside of New York. The rest of the State was in charge of the State Committee and others. As to what they did I have nothing to say."

Richard Croker has arranged to sail for England Saturday on the steamer Campania.

A resolution was adopted to the effect that the West Virginia division be recognized as part of the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

The treasurer's report showed the organization to be in a most prosperous condition financially.

Last night a reception and ball was tendered to the ladies of the convention in the Assembly Hall of the Arlington Hotel.

TESTIMONIAL TO A DEAD NEGRO.

He Died of Overstudy for His Mother's Sake and Macon Does Him Honor.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MACON, Mo., Nov. 11.—The most largely attended funeral of a colored man held here occurred this afternoon, when the body of Jasie Woods, aged 22, was buried. Woods' death was due to overstudy in order to complete his course in the medical college of Nashville, Tenn., this year. Young Woods began his student life at the colored schools here, then went to Western College, and after completing his course there attended at Nashville. He paid his own way through all these schools by working after study hours, and when he left for Nashville he encouraged his widowed mother by telling her he would get through this year sure and then begin work to provide for her in earnest. He overtaxed his strength, bringing on a complication that resulted in his death. He was a member of the Baptist Church. The colored people here almost idolized young Woods, and scarcely one of them was absent from the funeral, which was also attended by many of the boy's white friens.

MURDER OF AN AMERICAN.

United States Consul Investigating an Affair in Japan.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11.—The Belgic brings the news of a murder which occurred in Corea just before she sailed from Yokohama. George Lake, an American, was a storekeeper at Chemulpo. He was found dead with an ugly hole in his skull. A long blade with a heavy weight at the end of it was found by the side of the body. Deputy United States Consul J. C. Sands was investigating the murder when the Belgic sailed.

WILL BE 102 YEARS OLD ON NOVEMBER 27.

HER APPROACHING BIRTHDAY BRINGS LITTLE JOY TO MRS. HARRIET B. TOWNSEND.

WOMAN IN A HURRY PICKS UP ANOTHER'S SATCHEL WITH $5000 WORTH OF GEMS.

Friction in the Gladstone Family Has Deprived the Statesman's Wife of Her Hawarden Home.

ROSLYN, L. I., Nov. 11.—It is a race now between life and death at the little house in Roslyn where Mrs. Harriet Byron Townsend lives with her granddaughter, Mrs. Alexander Kilpatrick, cared for by her own daughter, Mrs. Hastings. If the aged lady survives until Nov. 27 she will have rounded out the 102d year of her life.

But Mrs. Townsend is failing very fast. Day by day she slips further away from life. Until a year ago everything in life interested her. Since that time the breaking up of the physical machine has been so rapid that each day seems to make a difference in her strength.

"I don't see why I have lived so long. I don't see why I am left living," mourns the old woman, as almost blind, hardly able to catch a tone of her daughter's voice, and shut off by failing faculties from intercourse with those about her, she sits for hours propped in her old-fashioned armchair or rests on her couch.

In the last few weeks nothing interests her. No desire even for delicacies moves her. A bird-like appetite is easily appeased.

Sundays she recognizes from the lack of haste about her in the household. Then she repeats to herself the litany and prayers of the Episcopal Church, into which she was born more than 100 years ago. "Too long, too long," she murmurs, when her approaching birthday is spoken of.

Mrs. Townsend's life has been very uneventful. When its important events are asked for, her two marriages are suggested as its most momentous occurrences. Apparently they were, for all her life has been passed in the duties of a housewife. She has never kept domestics in her family and for more than seven decades her first thought was housekeeping.

Her second husband lived to be over 90 years old. It is only since his death eight years ago that she has been unequal to taking care of herself. Five years ago she came to Roslyn, and now is finishing her life in almost a strange place.

"It's a sad thing when a woman lives to be so old and so helpless and life is worth so little," moans Mrs. Townsend.

MRS. GLADSTONE'S MISFORTUNE.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—The American friends of Mr. Gladstone will hear with regret that his estimable and beloved widow is no longer mistress of Hawarden Castle, and that this historic residence will not in future be her home. There has been a considerable amount of friction and unpleasantness in the Gladstone family since the old statesman's death, mainly in connection with the disposition of his estate and in the control of the property. Matters being engendered in the minds of the sons and daughters of Mr. Gladstone by the altered position in which the widow of his oldest son—Mrs. Will am Henry Gladstone—has been placed by his death. It is probable that henceforth and for the remainder of her days the elder Mrs. Gladstone will make her home in London with her son Hubert, and be cared for and nursed by her daughter Helen.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 11.—Mrs. Jane A. Smiley arrived here this morning from her home in Schenectady, N. Y., to claim the $5000 worth of jewelry that she lost in the Broad Street Station Oct. 7. The detectives of this city and of all the large cities of the country had looked more or less diligently for them during the past month.

The finder of the jewels is Mrs. Sarah Jamison, who lives at the home of her son, at Ardmore, Pa. After a shopping trip to this city on the day in question, she was returning home with a few parcels in a small brown satchel.

She sat waiting for her train several minutes and got up hastily as it was called ont. Not until she reached Ardmore did she find that instead of her own satchel she had one a little smaller, but of the same general appearance.

But her surprise was nothing then compared with what it was when she opened the strange satchel. For, after removing a few toilet articles, her eyes fell upon a dazzling array of jewels.

Here is a list of them: Large topaz breastpin, with cluster of pearls; diamond and sapphire ring. Two opal and diamond rings, three-stone diamond ring, turquoise and diamond ring, sapphire and diamond ring, pair of solitaire diamond earrings, opal stickpin, gold-bar breastpin, with diamonds; small gold watch with bow-knot chatelaine.

Mrs. Jamison was so dazzled by the sight as to be quite disconcerted. She didn't know what to do with the gems, and in her ignorance of the ways of the world she feared that she would be suspected of theft if she told the police or took the bag back to the railroad station.

So she kept the matter to herself and the precious articles locked up in her bureau. Meanwhile the matter weighed heavily upon her mind, and finally she appealed to a prominent manufacturer at Wayne Junction, who had been a friend of her husband's.

This gentleman was greatly surprised at her keeping the valuables so long and advised her to go to Captain of Detectives Miller and tell her story. She begged him to accompany her and he consented to do so.

They went on their errand yesterday morning and took the Captain greatly by surprise. His long experience enabled him to be sure of the old lady's honesty, the more so by reason of her escort's prominence, but in order not to take the responsibility in the matter he took them to see Mayor Warwick, of whom the manufacturer is a friend. To him the old lady told her story once more. She expressed great regret at her delay and declared that she wants no reward.

Her own satchel was found among the lost articles at the station whither it had been taken before Mrs. Smitley had discovered the loss of hers.

FOUGHT A DUEL WITH SWORDS.

Fierce Combat Between Two Members of Austria's Parliament.

HERR WOLFF WORSTS CHEVALIER DE GNIEWOSZ.

LATTER'S HEAD CUT TO THE BONE AND ONE HAND ALMOST SLASHED OFF.

THE COMBAT CAUSED BY RACE HATRED.

Editor Wolff Had Denounced the Poles as a Swarm of Parasites, Sucking the Life Blood of the Austrian Nation.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—The Vienna correspondent of the Mail telegraphs:

A fierce duel between the notorious Herr Wolff and the Polish Deputy, Chevalier de Gniewosz, is the talk of the city. The cause of the duel was Wolff's remark on Tuesday's sitting of the Reichstag that the Poles are a swarm of parasites sucking the lifeblood of the Austrian nation. This insult roused the anger of the Polish Deputies, who rose as one man and made for Wolff. The latter was quickly surrounded by a ring of German Deputies and a sharp tussle ensued between the representatives of the two nationalities, in the course of which Wolff was badly knocked about by the Poles.

When the storm subsided De Gniewosz declared, in behalf of the Polish party, that it repudiated with scorn the "insults of a street cad like Wolff."

Wolff immediately challenged De Gniewosz.

The latter selected swords, and the duel was fought under life and death conditions. Wolff, a journalist by following, is short, slightly built and lame in one leg. De Gniewosz is tall and stout. He formerly was an officer.

When the word of command was given the two Deputies began a furious combat, thrusting and parrying with a rapidity which was bewildering.

De Gniewosz, carried away by rage, directed blow after blow at his adversary. Wolff parried the ex-officer's wild onslaughts with cool judgment, and within five minutes caught his rival off his guard and wounded him in two places.

De Gniewosz's head was cut to the bone, while a part of his right hand was hanging by the skin. But in spite of his serious injuries and the umpire's command to cease, De Gniewosz followed his adversary, slashing at him savagely, until his own seconds seized and disarmed him.

He was removed to his house, where he will be confined several weeks.

Wolff sauntered to his office and wrote a leading article for his newspaper denouncing the Poles.

Whaleback Barge Wrecked and Crew of Six Rescued.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 11.—The big whaleback barge, No. 104, owned by the American Steel Barge Company parted her tow line in the harbor during the gale of last night and at once drifted against the breakwater. Six men, composing the crew of the barge, were rescued by the life-saving crew, only with the utmost difficulty and peril.

During the night the wind reached a velocity of 52 miles an hour. Early to-day, however, the gale had begun to subside.

MILES SET RIGHT.

OFFICIAL TELEGRAMS SHOW THAT HE COMMANDED AT SANTIAGO.

CONDUCTED THE NEGOTIATIONS

The General's Official Report Bears Out All the Statements Made in His Recent Interview.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Gen. Miles' report on the military operations in Cuba and Porto Rico is made public. Much of it has been already covered in the interview which the General gave out on his return from Porto Rico.

While there is no direct criticism of Secretary Alger or Gen. Shafter, the report shows that Miles was in command when the Spaniards surrendered at Santiago and that he conducted the negotiations.

Miles wanted to take command of the expedition to Santiago and while at Tampa sent this dispatch to Washington:

This enterprise is so important that I desire to go with this army corps, or to immediately organize another and go with it to join this and capture position No. 2, now that the military is about to be used. I believe it should be continued with every energy, making the most judicious disposition of it to accomplish the desired result.

He also stated "this expedition has been delayed through no fault of any one connected with it. It contains the principal part of the army, which, for intelligence and efficiency, is not excelled by any body of troops on earth."

The telegram was dated June 5. The day following Secretary Alger telegraphed in reply:

The President wants to know the earliest moment you can have an expeditionary force ready to go to Porto Rico large enough to take and hold that island without the force under Gen. Shafter.

Gen. Miles' response was, "In ten days."

Finally the Santiago expedition sailed on June 14, and Gen. Miles quotes an order issued by him to Gen. Shafter, directing the latter to make a number of inquiries to ascertain whether every possible provision had been made for the transports, for the supply of rations, hospital supplies, wagons, landing boats, etc., winding up:

"I would suggest that thorough attention be required to every detail, in order to insure perfect order in the disembarking of your command."

The order is dated June 11, and June 15 Gen. Miles received the following dispatch:

WASHINGTON, June 15, 1898.—Maj. Gen. Miles, Tampa, Fla.: Important business requires your presence here; report at once. Answer.

R. A. ALGER, Secretary of War.

Coming to the operations against Santiago, the report tells briefly of the landing of the United States troops, and quotes Shafter's telegraphic account of the battle of El Caney. He says:

And on the next day the following dispatch was received:

PLAYA DEL ESTE, July 3, 1898.—Camp near Seville, Cuba: The Secretary of War, Washington —We have the town well invested on the north and east, but with a very thin line. Upon approaching it we find it of such a character and the defenses so strong it will be impossible to carry it by storm with my present force, and I am seriously considering withdrawing about five miles and taking up a new position on the high ground between the San Juan River and Siboney, with our left at Santiago, so as to get our supplies to a large extent by means of the railroad, which we can use, having engines and cars at Siboney.

The report quotes the remainder of this dispatch, describing the loss of the army and the appeal to Admiral Sampson to force the harbor entrance, all of which has been already published in Gen. Shafter's report. Gen. Miles' own telegram of congratulation is also given, winding up as follows:

"I expect to be with you within a week with strong re-enforcements."

Then follows Shafter's dispatch to Adjutant-General Corbin on July 4, saying Santiago could be taken in a few hours if Sampson would force an entrance. If the army alone was to do it, he would require 15,000 troops. Gen. Miles says that, on receipt of these communications, it was decided that he should immediately go to Santiago with re-enforcements. He purposed landing on the west side of the harbor to open the entrance and take the Spanish in the rear.

Then follows the details of the negotiations for surrender of the Spaniards conducted by Miles.

The General then goes on to say that, after examining the entire portion of the siding along the trenches from right to left, he returned to Gen. Shafter's headquarters. Before reaching that point he received the following cablegram from Washington in reply to his of the evening before:

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 11, 1898.—(Received 2:45 p. m.)—Maj. Gen. Miles: You may accept surrender by granting parole to officers and men, the officers retaining their side arms. The officers and men, after parole, to return to Spain, the United States assisting. If not accepted, then assault, unless in your judgment an assault would fail. Consult with Sampson and parune such course as in the assault as you jointly agree upon. Matter should be settled promptly.

R. A. ALGER, Secretary of War.

This left the matter to Gen. Miles' discretion—to accept surrender, order an assault, or withhold the same.

Then follows the story of the Spanish surrender, after which Miles gave orders for the separation of the fever-infected troops. Included in these orders is a telegram from Secretary Alger, dated July 14, as follows:

The conditions are such, on account of yellow fever, I have ordered all further shipments of troops to Santiago to cease. We are now arranging transportation for 25,000 men to Porto Rico. As soon as matters are settled at Santiago, I think you had better return, and go direct with the expedition. Yellow fever breaking out in camp at Santiago will, I fear, deprive you of the use of our forces there. However, can be determined later. As soon as Santiago falls, the troops must all be put in camp as comfortably as they can be made, and remain, I suppose, until the fever has had its run. It is the difficult problem to solve, but we are sure you and Gen. Shafter, with the aid of the surgeons in charge, will do all that can be done.

Gen. Miles replied that he had anticipated the advice as to the troops and would consult with Sampson as to embarkation of the troops at Porto Rico or an adjacent island. He also telegraphed Gen. Henry, at Siboney, and Admiral Sampson that the enemy had surrendered. He added that there was some delay in the final capitulation, owing to disagreement over the disposition of the Spanish small arms.

Returning to Siboney, which he partially burned, he received this dispatch:

July 16—Gen. Miles: They surrender.

SHAFTER.

Upon which he sent renewed congratulations and gave further instructions as to the care of the troops, including some recommendations by Chief Surgeon Greenleaf and other medical officers. He also directed Gen. Shafter to make daily reports to headquarters of conditions. This message called forth the following exchange of telegrams:

SIBONEY, July 17.—Gen. Miles, on board Yale: Letters and orders in reference to movement of camp received and will be carried out. No one is more anxious than myself to get away from here. It seems, from your orders given me, that you regard my force as part of your command. Nothing will give me greater pleasure than serving under you, and I shall comply with all your requests and directions, but I was told by the secretary that you were not to supersede me in command here. I will furnish the information called for as to condition of command to Gilmore, Adjutant General, army headquarters.

SHAFTER, Major-General.

In reply to Gen. Shafter's telegram Gen. Miles sent the following message:

Headquarters of the Army, Playa del Este, July 18.—Gen. Shafter: Telegram received. Have no desire, and have carefully avoided any appearance of superseding you. Your command is a part of the United States army, which I have the honor to command, having been duly assigned thereto, and directed by the President to go wherever I thought my presence required and give such general directions as I thought best concerning military matters, and especially directed to go to Santiago for a specific purpose. You will also notice that the order of the Secretary of War of July 13 left the matter to my discretion. I should regret that any event would cause either yourself or any part of your command to cease to be a part of mine. Very truly yours,

NELSON A. MILES,
Major-General, Commanding U. S. Army.

Then follow some telegrams instructing Gen. Shafter to remove his soldiers to high ground, and notifying Secretary Alger that, in his (Miles') opinion, if this movement into the mountains did not check the fever then the only way to save a large portion of the command would be to ship them to a point on the New England coast to be chosen by the Surgeon-General.

Gen. Miles then gives the history of the movement, which ended in the capture of Porto Rico, and in conclusion recommends the authorization of an auxiliary force of native troops in Cuba, in Porto Rico and the Philippines, to be officered by United States army officers, and not exceeding two soldiers for 1000 population of the islands, and all of these increases he urges should be made at once, as they are of vital importance.

SINGULAR STATEMENT.

From Mrs. Rank to Mrs. Pinkham.

The following letter to Mrs. Pinkham from Mrs. M. RANK, No. 2,354 East Susquehanna Ave., Philadelphia, Pa., is a remarkable statement of relief from utter discouragement. She says:

"I never can find words with which to thank you for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me.

"Some years ago I had womb trouble and doctored for a long time, not seeing any improvement. At times I would feel well enough, and other times was miserable. So it went on until last October, I felt something terrible creeping over me, I knew not what, but kept getting worse. I can hardly explain my feelings at that time. I was so depressed in spirits that I did not wish to live, although I had everything to live for. Had hysteria, was very nervous; could not sleep and was not safe to be left alone.

"Indeed, I thought I would lose my mind. No one knows what I endured.

"I continued this way until the last of February, when I saw in a paper a testimonial of a lady whose case was similar to mine, and who had been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I determined to try it, and felt better after the first dose. I continued taking it, and to-day am a well woman, and can say from my heart, 'Thank God for such a medicine.'"

Mrs. Pinkham invites all suffering women to write to her at Lynn, Mass., for advice. All such letters are seen and answered by women only.

BANDITS CAPTURED.

SIX OF THE MEN WHO HELD UP A TRAIN IN MINNESOTA IN CUSTODY.

THREE ARE FROM MISSOURI.

They Looted the Local Safe on the Train, but Only $200 Was Found on Them When Taken.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 11.—A Moorhead, Minn., special to the Journal says: Six of the men engaged in the hold-up of the Great Northern coast train near Fergus Falls were captured here this morning by Chief of Police Murphy. Four of the men arrived at the Exchange Hotel here together and two others came about an hour later and inquired for the first four. Each had large revolvers. Two sets of burglar tools and two dark lanterns, three sticks of dynamite and four dynamite caps were found on them. Each man had three handkerchiefs. The men had about $200. They gave their names as W. C. Ross, J. C. Hall, C. F. Huffman, B. L. Minot, M. Morris and J. B. Edwards. None is more than 30 years old and all are bright and intelligent in appearance. Three claim to come from Missouri. There seems no doubt that they are the men implicated and they had agreed to rendezvous at Moorhead. A number of other robberies, including that of an elevator at Evansville and a bank at Battle Lake, are now credited to this gang.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 11.—The Great Northern Express Co., whose local safe was blown open in the train held up last night by masked robbers, near Fergus Falls, today offered a reward of $5000 for the arrest and conviction of the robbers. The express officials say the loss was very small, the safe not containing money.

The train passed through Fergus Falls at 7:30 p. m. Two of the robbers evidently boarded the blind baggage. The train was scarcely out of town when these two climbed over the tender, and presenting revolvers, told Engineer Brace and his fireman to stop at a lonely spot near the Pelican River bridge. At this place the engineer and fireman were compelled to leave the cab. The other members of the gang rushed from the woods and boarded the express car. All wore handkerchiefs over their faces. The gang was regularly organized and went by numbers.

When the train stopped the conductor and brakeman started forward to find out what the trouble was, but the bandits fired a number of shots and warned them to keep back. They then compelled the express messenger to leave the car, and while three or four stood guard the others proceeded to blow the safes.

The through safe was drilled and dynamited, four charges being used. The jacket was blown off, but it was found impossible to reach the inner part and left the cash. They worked over it nearly two hours, but gave up finally and, joining their companions on the outside, started south.

The two men who stood guard over the engineer compelled him to give up $20.

A Fireman Killed and the Medical Building of the U. of T. Destroyed.

Before leaving the city the General said he did not know when he would get back and enter upon his campaign for the United States Senatorship.

"I would like to be able to get out of Cuba before next summer, and I would like to see the army brought back," he said.

HANNAIZED.

With the New York Legislature Republican, the election of Chauncey Depew to the Senate seems pretty well assured.

Mr. Depew will nominally represent the State of New York, but really he will be an agent of the Vanderbilt interests and allied corporations. Whenever a question arises between the public good and the Vanderbilt millions the Senator from New York will not be found on the popular side.

The Senate is on the toboggan slide. There are a few members who cling to the majestic tradition of that body, some who feel themselves responsible to the people for the honest discharge of the trust committed to them. But for the most part special interests have their attorneys on the floor, and if the general good is consulted it is because for the moment the special interests see no profit in neglecting it.

The Senate is thoroughly Hannaized.

Tuesday's scratchers did not win, but they have the satisfaction of knowing that they did their duty as citizens. Deserving success is nearly as good as achieving it.

POLITICAL AND FINANCIAL COMBINATIONS.

It is announced with considerable show of bravery that the Washington Government will not be frightened by any combination of European governments, but will press the Philippine question to a settlement as a purely American matter.

Perhaps so; the political influence of a European combination need not be greatly feared by the American republic. But the combination of financial agents is to be reckoned with, and experience does not justify any great hope that the McKinley Administration can stand out against pressure from the banking houses of Morgan, Ickleheimer, Rothschild and the Barings. They are determined to save the debt of Spain and will shift as much of it as they can to the United States, calling it "purchase money" for the Philippines or some other fine name.

Are the American people ready to save Spain's "honor" by paying $150,000,000 for islands they do not want, at the dictation of a financial syndicate?

The State of Illinois and the United States should act together in preventing the flow of Chicago's enormous filth into the Illinois and the Mississippi.

ANTI-CIVIC OBSTRUCTION.

The continual disagreement of the Board of Public Improvements and the City Council in regard to a new lighting ordinance makes it almost certain that the city's interests will be sacrificed in making the new contract.

The Board insists that a five-year contract is too short. Yet St. Paul, Minn., is getting its lighting done on a one-year contract, and paying only $69.50 per arc lamp for all-night service, while St. Louis pays $74.95. There are other cities—Erie, Pa., Lock Haven, Pa., and Herre Haute, Ind.—that have five-year contracts and pay less for all-night arc lamps than St. Louis.

The City Council claims that the present form of contract is satisfactory, and some of the councilmen want to confine the bidding to St. Louis companies, which may not be conducive to St. Louis' interests.

The Board should submit a short term contract, with such reasonable provisions as are necessary, and the Municipal Assembly will alone be to blame for obstructing the lighting of the city under conditions satisfactory to the citizens, or for selling out the city to a monopoly.

Col. Teddy has won a glorious victory for Tom Platt.

A RUSSIAN VIEW.

It is said that the Czar was moved to write his peace rescript by a book called. "The Coming War, in Its Technical, Economical and Political Aspects." The author is a Warsaw banker and a writer of note on political subjects.

After drawing a grewsome picture of the horrors of the next great war, the banker-author goes on to recommend a reduction of armaments without disturbing the relative strength of the nations. "If the relative strength remains the same," he says, "it matters little what the absolute forces of each country are. Therefore, they might all be divided by any given number—the greater the better—without giving the least advantage to any one." He further recommends a Supreme Court of Arbitration, whose decisions shall be final.

All this is agreeable to reason, common sense and humanity and no doubt will make a due impression upon the public mind of Europe. If the dream is not immediately realized a step forward will be taken. But more than this cannot be expected. Selfish interest lies at the base of politics whatever politicians may say. Interest makes short work of reason, common sense and humanity, especially when it is backed by power.

Now it is the essence of power to enlarge itself. It is never the medium of a self-denying ordinance. Through diplomacy or war the Powers of Europe must carry on the conflict until one of them obtains the preponderance with acknowledged dominion.

This is, indeed, the conclusion of the author himself, who thinks the question will be settled by nature operating through growth and decay. What his bias is may be seen in the cynical remark that "in a hundred years the people of European Russia alone will number 300,000,000, Germany will have 80,000,000 and France will have shrunk to 50,000,000. Russia will be supreme. Her will, nay, her very caprices, will be unchallenged."

The sixteen-page Post-Dispatch yesterday contained 60 columns of paid advertising, 14 columns more than all the other evening papers combined. Among the notable things in St. Louis is the Post-Dispatch—one of the two great evening newspapers in the United States. It has no superior and only one equal—the Chicago News.

OPPOSITION TO TAX PROPOSITIONS.

It is to be regretted that St. Louis is without an adequate free library building, but the conclusion that neglect alone and not opposition defeated the tax proposition in Tuesday's election is not justified by the facts.

The vote for the tax was 42,421; that against the tax was 24,693. The total vote cast on the tax proposition was 68,114. Two-thirds of this number is 45,408, so that it will be seen that the tax not only fell far short of the two-thirds of the total vote cast in the election, but that it failed to receive two-thirds of the vote cast on the tax proposition.

If the whole vote on the election had been cast on the tax proposition in the same percentages as the ballots actually cast, the tax would have been defeated. The favorable vote would have lacked several thousand of a two-thirds majority.

Friends of the library building movement should not blind themselves to existing conditions and to the difficulties in the way of a realization of their plans.

The vote clearly indicates a sufficient opposition to defeat the measure. It is based upon several causes. One is the view of many citizens that the city should first secure adequate charitable institutions before investing a million or two in a library building. Another is strong opposition to any increase of taxation until the millions now collected in taxes are economically applied to the city's needs.

A large portion of the people have come to the conclusion that much of the money turned into the city is squandered and stolen and that not only is fresh taxation unnecessary, but that it is designed to provide larger opportunities for extravagance and dishonesty.

This may be unreasonable in connection with the new library proposition, but in view of the conditions existing in our municipal government, it is natural, and is hard to eradicate. Public distrust of tax propositions is profound.

Reform and retrenchment in ordinary municipal expenditures would not only provide better adequate accommodations for the charitable institutions, but would prepare the public mind for fresh taxes required for the library and other public improvements. It is doubtful if they can be secured without radical reforms.

All humane people will wish success to the proposed industrial farm for children. Such an institution near St. Louis, under competent management, would accomplish great good. When the farm shall have been established there should be constructed a large and very tight pen for worthless parents who refuse to support their offspring.

It seems that Minister De Lome reported to the Spanish Government in September of 1897 that Mr. McKinley had given him assurances that Gen. Lee would be withdrawn from Cuba. It is clear that only popular pressure caused the President to finally consent to the rescue of Cuba.

When Mr. McKinley marched into the White House he dropped Chauncey Depew outside the breastworks. The fact may prove something of an inspiration to the great after-dinner orator when he speaks to-night at the Miles banquet.

New York and Washington have the underground trolley system and Chicago may have it before it is adopted in St. Louis. The trolley above ground has always been unsightly, and is now no longer up-to-date.

Employment is not chasing bank clerks just now. The concentration of talent which is going on in the consolidations is quite unfavorable to the condition described by Mr. Depew and Mr. McKinley.

The election of Pingree by a heavy majority is a fly in the Republican ointment. Pingree's ideas of equal taxation are not at all in accord with the views of the controlling element of the party.

Carter Harrison said Chicago's sewage would spoil the lake. So Chicago is to spoil other people's rivers in order to save her lake. The Government should see that she is not permitted to do it.

HOW TO BE BEAUTIFUL.

Harriet Hubbard Ayer Tells Post-Dispatch Lady Readers All About the Pug Nose and How to Eliminate It.

Written for the Post-Dispatch.

CATCH a pug-nosed baby young enough and I assure you there's no trouble in modelling a very decent, straight, little, thoughtful and good-looking feature out of the flattest, most smashed-in specimen.

I'll tell you how it is done directly, but,

first of all, a word about the characteristics that go with the pug type of nose:

First of all, your friends with the scant allowance of nose have a genuine sense of humor.

Am I right? Of course I am. The pug-nosed little child will always see a joke before the Greek or Roman-nosed playmate.

But—and now you must put your reflecting caps on—what about your pug-nosed friends' tempers.

Do you know that in most of the ugly rough-and-tumble fights that occur in the streets the combatants are snub or pug-nosed.

The pug-nosed little child will always see a joke before the Greek or Roman-nosed playmate.

Pug-nosed people are naturally contrary.

When they have overcome the tendency to be so, they are deserving of all kinds of praise.

Pug-nosed women are always having hideous rows with their dearest friends.

They are born disorganizers. One pug-nosed lady will set twenty women by the ears.

Look back upon your family outbreaks, and if there was a pugnose in the unpleasantness, at all, he or she was a party to its beginning.

Did any one ever know of a great conqueror—a great factor in the proper sense in the destinies of the universe—with a pug nose.

Do you recollect that men who had these noses were, when they reached powerful places, tyrants, cruel and despotic.

Do you recall the Emperor Paul of Russia—Marat of France?

Well, they had snub noses.

Now, I believe that a child's characteristics may be metamorphosed with the elimination of facial defects.

In other words I believe that a pugnosed infant will never receive the same serious and kindly interest from the world at large that is accorded the straight-nosed little lad or lassie. It is pretty nearly always snub for snub.

The child with the pug has its tendencies aggravated.

No one ever takes a little snub-nosed man or woman seriously.

Every one thinks they look "cute" or ridiculous or saucy or absurd, and so they do when they are mere babies. They provoke merriment, no matter how real is their infantile distress. When a pug-nosed manikin of 5 cries and roars in baby grief or anger his audience shouts with amusement—he looks so ridiculous.

When a Greek-nosed pet is moved to tears he is sympathized with.

So the pug hits back and learns to be more cruel even than he otherwise would, and his tendencies, mind you, are in that direction.

You treat your little pug pretty much as you would if it were made of putty.

Admitting that we all resemble the members of the animal kingdom in a greater or lesser degree, it must be conceded that snubby brutes are pretty nasty—bull terriers, for example. You may say that English pugs are good-tempered—they pass for being so, but in reality they are, according to an excellent authority, lazy and inert, from being generally overfed.

When they are not overfed they are capricious and unfaithful.

But pug noses need not exist. There never was a pug that could not have been much improved by manipulation.

Scarcely one that cannot be trained into a straight, symmetrical feature.

You treat your little pug pretty much as you would if it were made of putty.

Take it gently between the thumb and forefinger and press it together, then pull it down. Repeat the process say 20 times during the day and you will find the little nose almost as tractable as dough.

You can't make a pug over in an hour, not a day, but you can in a year or even in five.

WHAT IS A MODEL HUSBAND?

In the interesting discussion among readers of the Post-Dispatch of the question "Should wives obey their husbands?" it has been suggested that a wife would be willing to obey a "model" husband. The Post-Dispatch will give a prize of ten dollars ($10) to the person sending in the best definition of a perfect husband. Letters on the subject must not exceed 100 words.

The "Model Husband."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I wish I could get an expression of opinion from your readers on the point of what is a model husband? I mean such a husband as any woman ought to be satisfied with. What faults are allowable, if any, in such a man, and what perfections or good qualities must he possess? How much latitude may he be allowed in those various small vices peculiar to men. Ought he to drink at all, or smoke, etc.; or must he eschew all such joys? I have my ideal and will describe him if others will do the same. MABEL F.

A Question for Flower Lovers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I attended the flower show last night and was delighted at the display. But I would be glad if some florist or lover of flowers will tell me why the dahlia is not grown to any extent in this part of the country? Is not the climate suitable, or is it merely because the dahlia is not the fashion just now? I think for perfect dahlias beat perfect chrysanthemums in every thing but size. What do other flower lovers think? FLORA.

A Common Fellow's View.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

We common fellows are tired after our day's labor. Hortense arrives at her office all crimped up at about 9 a. m.; quits at 5 p. m., for a small salary to buy candy. I say no! men, do not give your seats up to these made-up "beauties."

Lack of School Play-Grounds.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I want to register a kick against the small playgrounds some of our schools have for the children. For instance, the Ashland; originally it had plenty of room for the children of a six-room school to play in, but of late rooms have been added until now the school has 18 rooms, and all on the original lot. Of course the yard has been lessened until now I doubt if there is standing room were the pupils all out at once. The boys play in an adjoining lot, but this is very dangerous, as there are cars on either side of it, and boys won't stay in a field without a fence. The girls have practically no place to play. Now there is plenty of vacant ground on all sides of the school, and there is no excuse for the children being cooped up in this manner. A PARENT.

Mud at Car Terminals.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I walked through a portion of Clifton Heights this morning over a new board sidewalk, saying to myself that no doubt the Scullin people had put it down for the convenience of their patrons. But when I got within a block of the car I changed my mind, for the mud there was six inches deep and there was not even an approach to the car made with cinders or broken stone. After walking over a clean, new sidewalk I had to wade to the car. Next time I will take the Suburban, as I live half way between the two lines.

To Get Rid of Footpads.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In view of the numerous footpad robberies of late will say the Kansas City people were afflicted the same way a year ago, but soon cleared the robbers out by scouring the city with officers in citizens' clothes. Why cannot it be done here.

St. Louis. SUBSCRIBER.

From the Chicago Standpoint.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch

As all comers are given a hearing in your "Letters From the People" column, I venture to give the opinion of an outsider on the vote of Tuesday on the Library tax. The sentiment evinced by the people, the almost total indifference shown by most of the papers, notably the morning publications, on this question, fills a resident of my city with astonishment. The attitude of Chicago in fostering public libraries has been so different, their importance has been so fully recognized and their support so cordially given, that the refusal of a city like St. Louis to provide such an institution for its people seems incomprehensible.

The differing attitudes of Chicago and St. Louis on this one question serve to explain the difference in general growth and development of the two cities. Chicago has not been afraid to spend in municipal affairs, and is reaping her reward be becoming the attractive center of an enormous and constantly increasing volume of wealth and commerce, while St. Louis, with her "penny wise and pound foolish" policy and timid conservatism, seems bent upon counteracting her great advantages of position.

As a resident of Chicago I should rejoice in the apathy which sends to my own city the tide of progress, culture, and all that tends to make a city a desirable residence place and a magnet to draw the ambitious in letters, in art, in commerce, to her population. But as a visitor to a great city voluntarily placing itself among those who do not wish to progress, I am amazed. A CHICAGOAN.

St. Louis.

Missouri at St. Louis.

From the Clinton (Mo.) Democrat.

If St. Louis should have an Exposition in 1903 the entire State of Missouri should liberally aid the great enterprise, and the State should have one of the largest and best buildings on the ground, even if it does cost nearly one hundred thousand dollars. It is a burning disgrace upon the great State of Missouri that she did not have a building at Omaha to which her people could point to with pride. When a Missourian arrived at Omaha he "had to be shown" a little dark corner in some big building erected by the generosity and liberality of others in order to find the exhibits from this great State. It is humiliating in the extreme for Missourians to think of Omaha. It takes the pride out of us all, but we can partly make amends by not exhibiting the white feather at the great St. Louis Exposition.

Cuban Notions.

From the Peoria (Ill.) Herald.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch inclines to the belief that the Cubans want a government of their own for the reason that they believe the Americans will want to gobble everything if they get control. It is evident that the Cubans have formed the altogether wrong impression that the Mark Hannas of this country are representative Americans.

Missouri Coal Mining.

From the Chicago Record.

There have been no strikes of any consequence for more than five years and the output, especially in Macon County, which now produces one-fourth of the coal mined in Missouri, has increased rapidly.

THE HOUSE.

PANNE.—The most popular evening fabric, according to Paris advices, is panne—an elusive stuff, half satin, half velvet. A smart frock of softest black panne is cut princess style and wrapped over in front like a coat over a petticoat or rather just a flouncing of black lace over white tulle; there is a fichu of point lace and long sleeves of lace, with an empiecement of black velvet coming down in a point at the elbow; and at the waist, which is fastened over by two buttons, is a soft, small sash of liberty blue satin.

NEW COTILLION FIGURES.—A new cotillion figure is danced in London. It requires but a couple of shillings, which are tossed in the air—the lady having decided whether she intends dancing with "heads" or "tails." Our silver quarters answer the same purpose. A second figure is amusing. An aperture is made in a Japanese screen for the lady to look through, her eyes only showing. The man who guesses her identity dances with her.

A LINSEED MEAL POULTICE.—To make a linseed meal poultice take a clean saucepan and put it on the fire. Put into it a handful of linseed meal and hot water enough to make it like a thick paste, meanwhile stirring it with an iron spoon. Add linseed meal and water according to the size of the poultice required. Have a cloth or towel ready on a hot plate. Spread the linseed meal quickly and evenly on the cloth. Then dip a spoon into the hot water and run it over the linseed meal. This will give the poultice a glazed surface. After applying this poultice cover it with a piece of oil silk to keep in the moisture and bandage it over to keep it in position.

A GOOD TONIC.—Two ounces of bittersweet bark, four ounces wild cherry bark, two ounces unicorn root, two ounces spikenard root, four ounces yellow dock root, one ounce columbo root, two ounces elder flowers, one ounce fennel seed, one quart port wine, five quarts water, one pound sugar. Place the herbs, roots, etc., in a vessel and add the five quarts of water boiling hot. Let the herbs steep slowly, until it is reduced to one-third the quantity. Strain carefully, add sugar and when cold stir in wine. Bottle tightly and keep in a cool place. Take a scant one-half wineglass three times a day.

THE TABLE.

HOW TO COOK QUAIL.—The late John Chamberlin used to say there was but one way to cook quail properly and that was to broil it. Following are directions for broiling quail: Pluck, singe and draw the birds, cut off the claws and heads, split them down the back, rub each bird with soft butter, season with salt, lay them on a broiler and put them over a bright crisp fire, broil one side till a rich brown, then broil the other side the same. Serve each bird on a slice of crisp bread which has been dipped in melted butter. Garnish with parsley and serve hot with currant or quince jelly.

CHEESE STRAWS.—Ingredients: Two ounces of flour, cayenne and salt, two ounces of butter, the yolk of one egg. Mix together the flour, salt and cayenne; grate the cheese fine—Parmesan is the best for this, and you can buy it in bottles ready grated. Mix the cheese with the flour, then rub in the butter. Mix it to a stiff paste with the yolk of egg and if necessary add a little drop of water. Roll out the paste an eighth of an inch thick, and cut into strips—called straws—about four inches long and an eighth of an inch wide. Lay these on a tin, which need not be greased, as the pastry is so rich, and bake in a slow oven till a pale brown. Handle these straws very carefully; they break so easily.

CUCUMBER CATSUP.—Pare and remove seed from a dozen ripe cucumbers; chop fine with eight small onions; add two tablespoonfuls grated horseradish, half teaspoon each white pepper and cayenne, half teacup white sugar and a small tablespoon salt. Mix together, place in jars, cover with cold vinegar and seal.

BEEF TEA MADE QUICKLY.—Chop fine half a pound of beef, soak for ten minutes in cold water to cover it, add a little salt, then put on the fire at the back of the range, so that it may come very slowly to the boiling point. Boil three minutes and serve hot.

CORN PUDDING.—Cut half a pint of corn in a bowl, add the yolk of one egg, half cup of milk, one tablespoonful melted butter, half even teaspoonful salt, half tablespoonful sugar, the white of egg beaten to a stiff froth and one-eighth teaspoonful white pepper; mix all together, pour the preparation into a buttered pudding dish, and bake in a medium hot oven till firm to the touch; then remove and serve in the same dish in which it was baked.

A TALE OF THREE CITIES.

HE WAS a Jersey commuter.

So was she.

(This is a love story.)

He boarded the train at Pompton. She got aboard at Hackensack. They crossed the Cortlandt street ferry together each morning and walked side by side to Broadway. Then he went to the third floor jewelry shop on Maiden lane, where he worked all day at double-entry, while she pounded the typewriter keys till 5:10 p. m. in a Dey street importer's office.

They loved each other very dearly and spent most of their spare time in figuring up how much $10 plus $8 a week (their respective salaries) would amount to, and how well two people could live on that princely sum.

One cloud alone flitted between them. He openly scorned the notion of settling down in Hackensack, and guyed that town's unlovely name, while she declared that life in Pompton was Life in Paterson itself. Which it would not.

This rift in love's lute widened and widened, chords snapped. The girl took to traveling to and from New York on another railroad, while the man morosely played penny ante in the smoking car, and even stopped looking apologetic when city friends caught him hurrying, bundle laden, toward the ferry.

When a Jersey commuter loses this deprecating expression he is in a bad way.

One day the girl missed the train on the other road and had to catch the 8:25 on the old line. The same morning (the [illegible] being switched off on account of a [illegible] bolt) the man was forced to ride in the forward car.

[illegible] of the car—forced the two erstwhile lovers to share the same seat.

The girl fell to studying the Jersey meadows, while the man tried to look as if he didn't know who his seatmate was.

"West End!" announced the conductor at the door, and the train slowed up.

Suddenly, fifty yards before the station was reached, the engine stopped with a jar that shook the passengers out of their seats.

The next moment a second, worse shock came.

There was a roar, a grinding of wood and steel, an explosion, clouds of escaping steam, a chorus of yells—and the car in which the man and the girl sat was lifted bodily in the air.

The switchman had partaken of the cup that cheers and afterward inebriates, until his mind had soared above such earth-born themes as switch turning.

The Congressional limited had, in consequence, run into the locomotive of the commuters' train, with the result popularly described as "pi."

As the front car of the local fell on its side ten feet from the track, amid a shower of falling glass, the Pompton man braced himself in the seat, received the impact of a few tumbling fellow passengers, got a three-inch gash in the face from a bit of window glass, and held the girl tightly with his free arm, preventing her from being dashed against the side of the car.

Through the gloom and the chaos of scuffling bodies came a new cry. Some cheerful id ot had set up the regulation howl:

"The car's afire!"

Still holding the trembling girl on one arm, the man climbed over seats to a window denuded of sash, shutter and glass, pushed her carefully through the narrow aperture and followed close behind her to the outside of the overturned car.

A minute later both were safe on the ground and she was sobbing in his arms.

"O, forgive me! Forgive me!" she gasped as soon as she could speak. "I was so cross about living in Pompton; and—and now you've saved my life!"

The man stopped in the congenial task of picking fragments of glass from his countenance and answered:

"No, no! I was wrong! But it's all right now; and we'll live in Hackensack for all time. It's—it's a lovely place to live!"

A shadow of dawning recollections crossed the girl's face, and she instinctively drew away from him.

"I'm—I'm so sorry," she exclaimed penitently. "But I've promised to marry our managing clerk; and—we're going to live in New York."—Evening World.

A MINUTE LATER BOTH WERE SAFE ON THE GROUND AND SHE WAS SOBBING IN HIS ARMS.

WHAT DID HE MEAN?

Banks: I think Scribbler is as good a writer as Eugene Field was.

Hanks: But Field is a dead one.

Now they are putting on "Romeo and Juliet" without the kiss. Next thing we know the frost will be off of the punkin, the foam off of the beer, the ham out of the sandwich, Cupid off of the valentines and love out of the dictionary. Ah, well, this is a sad world!

'Twixt Kate and me this difference is,
However you make light of it:
Of powder she can't bear the scent,
Nor I endure the sight of it.

What's in a name? In spite of the black outlook for Illinois Democrats, Congressman Jett was elected.

AS TO PSYCHE.

Her lovely face and pouting smile
Ensnared me on the spot.
She wore her tresses in the style
Called Psyche knot.

And yet, though beautiful to see,
And all that kind of rot,
I might as well admit that she Was Psyche not.

AMPLE REASON.

Col. Patterson: I undahstand, suh, that Majah Bludsoe of Louieville killed a bahtendah down at Paducah, suh.

Col. Pepper: Is that so, suh? Why?

Col. Patterson: The scoundrel asked him what he would have in his whisky, suh!

SPORT OF THE DAY

THE HIGH'S VICTORY.

THE SCHOOLBOYS GET AWAY WITH THE 'VARSITYS AT THE RUGBY GAME.

THE C. B. C. JUNIORS WIN.

On the College Campus Yesterday They Put It All Over the Junior Eleven Representing High School.

The High School-St. Louis University game resulted, as forecasted in these columns, in a victory for High, by a score of 23 to 0.

The grounds were in the worst possible condition, being a sea of mud.

At every step a man would fall, but despite all this the High School back field played an exceptionally good game.

Long's end runs and Sample's bucking were responsible for most of High's gains.

Smith played his usually good game.

Erskine is something of a "mud lark" and galloped around University's right end twice for a touch-down—at one time running 55 yards.

Hoolan had not so great an opportunity to distinguish himself as the University boys seemed to fear him and left his end alone.

Wind and Metcalf both played an aggressive game at tackles and were far the superiors of their opponents.

High, on the whole, played a great game and deserved to win.

The University boys plainly showed lack of practice, being weak not only in team work, but in the elementary formations.

Drew, the captain, played a nice game, gaining his ground when he had the ball and always getting his man on tackles.

Wheeler and Frost played a fair game.

Capt. Drew should take notice of the long delays when the college had the ball. They were very slow in lining up, and this was a great disadvantage to them. Quick, sharp, decisive playing is something above all a team should learn before entering a game.

In each game High has played there has been marked improvement in the team work. They play a good, fast game, and it is only their light weight that keeps them from tackling Washington University. Will Schweppe and Ed Gallon, the men who have been coaching the team, deserve credit for the good showing their eleven has made. The High boys have been trying hard to get the Missouri Medics of St. Louis to play them, but the latter seem afraid. On several days when games were scheduled the Missouri eleven failed to appear.

There has been some hitch in the arrangements for the game between the Washington University and the deaf mutes from Jacksonville, Ill. The game was to be played Saturday, at Athletic Park, but has been caller off. Manager Paul Dillon is trying to bring some team here to meet the University on Saturday, but so far has not succeeded in finding one.

The junior team of the C. B. C. and High School played on the college campus yesterday, the game resulting in a victory for C. B. C. by a score of 28 to 0. The game was a hotly contested one, but the C. B. C. boys showed the advantage of more practice, and played a good game in every department.

Yale and Princeton will have their final practice this afternoon and to-morrow. Both teams will line up for one of the greatest gridiron battles of the year. At present both elevens are in the worst possible condition. The important positions on each team are filled by men who are not capable of playing and who should be in the hospital instead of on the field.

Ever since her game with the Carlisle Indians Yale has never had her eleven in old time form. When they enter the field to-morrow very few of the regular players will be playing. The line of the team will be made up of the best men on the scrub team as most all of the regular eleven are crippled. The coaches are working hard and in spite of everything hope to have an eleven that will be able to hold the honor of old "Eli."

Princeton is in a fever of excitement. Coaches are crowding every corner of the field and working as they have never worked before. The Princeton eleven, like Yale, are a wondering what kind of a team will represent their college to-morrow, as the hospital list is the largest ever seen at this college. Capt. Hilgerbrand is the life of the team, and his way of urging the boys to work has put lots of life in the eleven. Seats are now at a premium. And the largest crowd of the season is looked for.

WITH THE BALL PLAYERS.

Billy Earle, the Old Brown Stocking, Now in a New Business.

Billy Earle, who at one time played behind the bat for the St. Louis Browns, after trying every way to get a job as a ball player, has donned a white apron and is carrying a tray. He is a waiter in the Grand saloon, on Longworth street, Cincinnati, and intends sticking to it until the baseball season opens, when he hopes to again don the spangles.

Members of the champion Boston team were presented with another pennant on Monday last, the gift of the baseball enthusiast, De Wolf Hopper. Manager Frank Selee and all of the players in the city—Capt. Duffy, Nichols, Long, Lewis and Klobedanz—occupied one of the lower boxes. At the conclusion of the second act De Wolf Hopper, the donor, came forward, and in a few words said that while he rooted for New York, he had finally transferred his allegiance to Boston, and hoped the pennant would prove a mascot for the club next season. Hopper then recited "Casey at the Bat" in his own inimitable way, given at the special request of the players.

Chauncey Fisher, manager and "star pitcher of the Omaha and St. Joseph teams of the Western League, and now one of the members of Umpire Joe Contillion's crew on the "Nancy Lee," has been claimed for next season by Ed Hanlon for his Baltimore team. Fisher has been in and out of the big league several times. He was with Cincinnati a couple of years ago, but was traded to Brooklyn along with "Germany" Smith for Shortston Corcoran. His stay in Brooklyn was brief, being released to some Western League team. Fisher has numerous friends in the major league circuit who will be glad to see him once more in line. He ought to be a success next year with the ex-champion Orioles to back him up.

Pitcher Hughes of the ex-champion Baltimore club, who created such a stir at the opening of last season, has gone to his home in Sacramento, Cal., where he was pressed into service to pitch for the Sacramento team. On his first appearance on the home diamond, the fans presented him with a gold watch and chain and a diamond-studded watch charm for the good showing he made in the big league. Hughes declared that he wasn't much of a speech-maker, but just to show his appreciation of the gift, he cracked out a three-bagger his first time at bat, while he let the other team down with only three hits and no runs.

THE LAW-BREAKERS.

THE SWELL CROSS COUNTRY CLUB GOES INTO THAT SORT OF BUSINESS.

SEVERAL FIGHTS ARRANGED.

They Will Take Place To-Morrow Night in the Rooms of That Aristocratic Organization.

The Cross Country Club, the swell organization of the West End, is going to give the newly organized Commercial Club a lively battle for honors in the boxing line.

At its monthly entertainment to-morrow night the Cross Country Club will give several very lively affairs in the boxing line.

There will be a 15-round go between Billy Lambert of London, England, and Jack Morris of San Francisco. Both of these men have excellent records. Lambert is quite renowned abroad.

Morris went 10 rounds with Joe Walcott to no decision.

Lambert fought a 17-round draw with Arthur Valentine for the lightweight championship of England.

The two preliminary bouts are of themselves a good card.

Artie Flint of St. Louis will go six rounds with James Adams of Pittsburg Pa.

Frankie Noel, the renowned local bantamweight, will go four rounds with Charles Mitrisching, also of St. Louis.

The Cross Country Club officials appear to think that they have as good a right to break the law as any one else, and they are going along arranging these fights just as though prize fighting in this State was not a felony.

Johnny Ritchie of St. Louis wants to accept Harry Forbes' offer to fight any man in the world from 115 to 118 pounds before any club offering the largest purse for any number of rounds.

Ritchie is down to 115 pounds for his fight Saturday night with Johnson at Chicago, where he weighs in at 118 ringside. He has been training at the A. A. A. Club in the Garden City.

Tom Sharkey is going to back himself. He will bet $5000 of his own money that he beats Corbett.

"It's just this way," said Sharkey the other day. "A great many people consider that I am a ten-to-one shot. Well, my private opinion is that I am a one-to-ten shot, but I'm looking for the fellows who think the other way and are willing to back their opinion."

Regarding this contest the New York World says:

"As the time approaches for the Corbett-Sharkey fight at the Lenox Club it is plain that one of the principals is becoming very nervous, judging from his reported utterances. It is almost needless to say that Sharkey is not the nervous one. Corbett, as is usual with him in all his fights, shows signs of nervousness, and his trainers seem to be unable to get him to fix his mind on the chance of winning. Corbett's trainers tell their man that the referee will take care of the foul blows, and all that is expected from Corbett is a fight. If Corbett is not the better man then the Californian, like other leaders in pugilism who have preceded him, will, of course, have to take a back seat. Corbett is expected to meet Sharkey at the game of prize-fighting, and the man with the most skill and endurance will win. It will not be a slugging match, pure and simple. Sharkey contends that he is the greatest fighter since the time of John L. Sullivan, and he uses many reasonable arguments to support his belief. Most of his rivals, he says, are fakers.

"Sharkey does not regard Corbett as a great fighter, but concedes that he is a fine sparrer, lacking a stout heart and a physique that will enable him to withstand a severe punishment. Sharkey believes that Corbett is also handicapped by the men he employs as trainers. The Sharkey training camp consists of Bob Armstrong, George Dixon and Tom O'Rourke, the pilot of the outfit. Tom O'Rourke coaches Sharkey with great care, instructing the sailor regarding all of Corbett's tricks and his method of boxing. Sharkey is quick to grasp new ideas and when asked regarding the probable outcome of the fight he said:

"'All I want is a fair deal. If Corbett fights fairly and honestly, why, I will win.'"

McCoy has asked the Greater New York Club to put up $10,000 as a guarantee of good faith. McCoy's match with Maher was to be for 70 per cent of the gross receipts, $10,000 guaranteed, and all parties interested were to make a deposit 15 days in advance of the contest. McCoy wrote the present management of the club from Boston, and a meeting was arranged for Tuesday last, when the management, it was expected, would be in position to talk business. McCoy waited for several hours at the place of appointment, but no one connected with the club put in an appearance. He afterward said:

"I don't see much of a chance for Maher and myself meeting before the Greater New York club. The man who signed for that club, Jack Dowell, its President, is no longer connected with the club. Of course, if they come to time and deposit a purse I am ready to do business."

Maher is at Falls River this week on a theatrical engagement. He is understood to be heartily in accord with McCoy in the position assumed by the Kid. Tuesday night Johnny Dunn, who is one of the managers of the Greater New York Club, stated that his organization would do all that was required of it, and that the fight would come off as scheduled.

Association Football Notes.

The St. Louis Football League will hold a meeting to-night in room 172, Laclede Building. The question of parks and schedule will then be passed on.

The St. Louis Football League has made arrangements to play one of their games next Sunday at Athletic Park. The Blankes and the Globes will play there then. The game between the Jeffersons and the C. B. C. team will be played on the College Campus, as usual. Each game will be called at 3 o'clock.

Hruska, the Globes' last year's goal-keeper, will be in next Sunday's game with the Globes against the Blankes at Athletic Park.

McCormac, the Globes' great half back, who has been playing goal for the last three games, will be back in his old position at right half in next Sunday's game against the Blankes.

McCartney and Winstanley, the new backs of the Globes, are both playing very fast foot ball for their team.

Great preparations are being made for next Sunday's game between the Globes and Blankes, to be played at Athletic Park at 3 p. m. A great crowd is expected out to see this royal game of association foot ball, and Tom Aiken says everything is ready for them. There is a room right back of the grandstand, which will be heated with a large stove, so that ladies or anyone else can keep warm while they are waiting for the game to start. Both teams are hard at work training for this game, and both managers are equally confident of winning.

With the Billiardists.

In last night's billiard games at Parker's Academy, Capron defeated Hersh at balk line, 50 to 12, and 100 to 21. At cushion caroms Capron again won from Hersh, 30 to 4. Capron wound up the sport by giving Hersh one button at three-cushion caroms and winning two straight games and defeating Jevne in three exhibitions. His playing throughout was of high order. In the afternoon Capron took Gillette into camp at cushion caroms, 30 to 22. The Cincinnatian turned the tables on Capron at balk line, winning 50 to 6. At three-cushion caroms Gillette (8) took six straight games from Hersh (7), and then broke even in six exhibitions with Jevne.

FIGHT TO A FINISH.

VON DER AHE BELIEVES CERTAIN PARTIES ARE TRYING TO RUIN HIM.

HE WANTS A NEW DEAL.

Creditors of Sportsman's Park and Club Believe That Receiver Muckenfuss Is Playing Favorites.

There is an open rupture between Chris Von der Ahe, trustee of the Sportsman's Park and Club Association, the corporation owning the St. Louis Browns, and B. Stewart Muckenfuss, now acting as receiver for the corporation.

Mr. Von der Ahe has placed Mr. Muckenfuss on the defensive and is going to try and have him ousted from the position he now holds.

Mr. Von der Ahe fired his first gun in the fight a few days ago, when the Sportsman's Park and Club, through its Vice-President, John W. Peckington, filed an application for a change of venue.

Mr. Von der Ahe feels that a desperate game is now on to squeeze him out of his possessions, which he does not propose to submit to without a hard struggle.

The corporation is indebted to him for over $100,000.

During the entire period of its existence he has sustained it, and in doing this his entire fortune was practically swept away.

He is fighting the receivership because he maintains it was wholly unnecessary and was obtained by unfair methods. The bondholders are trying to get the franchise from the Sportsman's Park and Club, but this Chris says they cannot do for the excellent reason that the corporation is not and never was the owner of the franchise.

Mr. Von der Ahe was the owner of the franchise in the old American Association and when the National League and American Association was consolidated the St. Louis franchise was given to him in exchange for the old one. He says that the capital stock of the present corporation, Sportsman's Park and Club was paid for in actual cash. Lawyers say that a corporation cannot legally hold or own more property than is covered or represented by its capital stock. If then the franchise was never transferred to or paid for by the corporation it could not rightfully mortgage to bondholders something which did not belong to it, and the fact that it has attempted to do so would not, in law, make any difference.

Mr. Muckenfuss' administration as receiver has been unsatisfactory to Mr. Von der Ahe, so much so indeed that exceptions have been taken to it in court. His action in releasing the players on the 10th of October and paying them in full to the 15th has been attacked. He and his bondsman will be asked to refund the $1200 which was paid to the players on this account.

His action in selling Taylor without an order of court and against Manager Hurst's protests, is also attacked. The court has been asked to set aside the sale and to order Taylor to report in St. Louis in the spring.

Exception has also been taken to his action in employing as his legal advisers Messrs. Messrs Muench and Perriss, who represent the bondholders in this litigation. It gives color to the charge of a "squeeze." This, it is alleged, is against public policy and so far has proven detrimental to the creditors at large.

The creditors insist that Muckenfuss should be guided by advice totally disinterested in and they insist that advice which comes from the attorneys for the bondholders is not and cannot be disinterested.

The fight promises to be a warm one and should Chris not get his rights in the lower the fight will be carried to the higher courts.

WITH THE CYCLISTS.

Majah Taylor Is Going South, Although He Is Not Wanted There.

A novel race was run in New York on last Tuesday.

Charlie Murphy, the racing cyclist, rode against and defeated Neil Alcyone, a guideless pacer.

The race was run in half-mile heats, best two in three. Murphy captured the first two heats in the slow time of 1:12 3-5 and 1:07 respectively.

The race was a good one from a spectacular point of view and brought forth much applause.

Without the guiding hands of a master, and obeying the commands shouted through a megaphone, the intelligent pacer made a pretty picture in its effort to lead the veteran racing cyclist in a couple of whirls around the half-mile course at Parkway Driving Park.

Major Taylor, the colored crack, is contemplating going South this winter to try and break records. Taylor will find that colored racing men are not welcomed in the Southern cities. He attempted to train in Savannah last spring, but was not permitted to ride on the track that the whites used, the only decent cycle track in that city. His Cape Girardeau experience ought to be another warning for him to steer shy of the South.

Doctor Did Little or No Good. Cuticura Cured. Skin Now Clear

A SWORN STATEMENT.

When my nephew was two weeks old he had running sores on his face, neck, breast, and hands, which continued to grow worse. They looked like raw beef. Sometimes blood would come and sometimes matter. He was awfully bad. Why, we had never heard or read of such a case. My sister had to tie his hands to the hammock to keep him from scratching himself, he itched so. He often rubbed his neck and face against his shoulders. The doctor did little or no good. Said "it came from the blood," etc. She heard of CUTICURA (ointment), and I bought her a box, and finding it gave satisfaction she continued to use it. The boy is all well now and his face is clear. In order to show you my good faith in this matter and how pleased I am with CUTICURA REMEDIES, I have taken oath to above statements. BURN'S GOOD WORK.

THE SCHORRS' JOCKEY AGAIN PROVES HIS SUPERIOR HORSEMANSHIP.

Heavy sleet and snow was falling when the horses went to the post at Lakeside yesterday afternoon.

Still there was a great race there, then the starters being Canova, O'Connell, Dave Waldo and other speedy ones.

When the barrier went up Hermosa was in front with O'Connell second, Canova third and Dave Waldo fourth. Down the backstretch the pace was terrific. Dave Waldo and Canova were racing like a team two lengths in front of O'Connell.

The first quarter was stepped in 24 seconds and the three furlongs in a trifle better than 36. It seemed natural that horses going at this fast rate through the mud must surely stop early.

Dave Waldo did, and when the head of the stretch was reached he was ready to lie down. Canova, too, was very leggweary and when O'Connell headed him in the stretch it looked as though the Speirs' castoff would surely win. He was tired himself, however, and when Dean attempted to draw his whip the old campaigner swerved to the outside and interfered slightly with Canova.

Burns was now hard at work on the latter, and when O'Connell weakened he seemed to gain new courage. At the sixteenth post O'Connell was a neck to the good. Canova was wabbling, but responded gamely to Burns' powerful call, and at the jockey board again got in front of O'Connell, and so remained to the wire, winning in a staggering way by a neck.

Dean did not ride a bad race on O'Connell, though Burns clearly outfinished him, and probably he could have won on either horse. O'Connell was an odds on favorite at 11 to 20, while Canova was a 4 to 1 chance. Mr. Schorr had a good bet both ways on Canova.

The strangest race meeting ever heard of took place in New York on Tuesday night. It was a strictly private affair and was held on a race course owned by one man. The meeting, in fact, was given on the private race course of William C. Whitney at Westbury, L. I.

The four hundred were there, and back in a remote part of the grounds, yet sufficiently close to the track to permit her to see the races, was Mrs. Whitney, now an invalid, sitting near a window in her country home. The estimable wife of the former Secretary of the Navy always has had a strong liking for the sport, and mainly with a view of affording her an opportunity of witnessing her favorite pastime was the meeting given. Mrs. Whitney expressed herself as being delighted with the various events. Mr. Whitney showed himself to be most hospitable. He was everywhere looking to the comfort of the visitors. He even erected a booth, filled it with refreshments, and bade everybody welcome. This was done to offset a parsimonious adventurer who had invaded the grounds, started a refreshment booth and charged war prices.

The racing was very good. The programme called for six races, but two more were added.

Walter Jennings will enter Briar Sweet in the Burns, Brooklyn and Suburban handicaps at San Francisco this winter.

Scott Laird left for Vicksburg, Nashville, Mobile and New Orleans this morning. He will race his horses Little Ell and Finis at the three first named points. His brother, W. H. Laird, will meet him at Vicksburg, and accompany him to New Orleans.

Handicapper Brooks of the Oakland race track and one of the Frisco sporting writers fought a draw in the betting ring at San Francisco this week. Brooks used to fight draws at the old East St. Louis course. He had a record there of never winning a fight and of never losing an opportunity to lose one.

A Turkish bath caused a well-planned coup to go wrong at Roby Monday and also the loss of many thousand dollars. M. Jordan, who owns Inconstancy, had carefully trained his horse for a "killing," and found what he thought was a soft spot in the last event of the day. He told his friends that all that was necessary to win was a strong boy who could make the weight allotted—104 pounds. Ellis was the only good boy available, and on Sunday he partook heartily of a good dinner. Then he jumped on the scales and was frightened at a year's growth when he found that he was eight pounds over the weight.

He hastened with the news to Mr. Jordan, and the latter gave him a $10 bill and hustled him off to a bathing establishment. Ellis had to take a double dose of treatment to get rid of his superfluous flesh, and came to the track weak from the rigid sweating he had undergone. Inconstancy opened at 12 to 1 and was quickly played down to 6. Ellis got the mare off in the lead, with Her Favor, Graziella and Julia Hazel close after her.

When the field rounded into the stretch Ellis found that he would have a battle with Lynch on Her Favor. When he tried to help his mount he found that he was so weak he could hardly sit on the horse. Inconstancy swerved and Her Favor flew past her, beating her by half a length. Ellis had to be assisted from the horses and was crying bitterly from sheer weakness.

Cap Tilles and Billy Bruen have not yet left for San Francisco. Tilles has been at Chicago and has not been able to get started for the West. He and Bruen will probably leave for there next week.

Fred Cook, Julius Lang, F. Leppert, Joe Pesch and Jack Dwyer are the latest arrivals at San Francisco from St. Louis.

Jimmy Michael, the great little cyclist, turned jockey, has selected his racing colors. Doubtless with a praiseworthy idea to do honor to the land which gave him birth, he has chosen what is known in Burke's Peerage as the badge of "the Most High, Most Puissant and Most Illustrious Prince, Albert Edward, Prince of Wales." The badge, which Jimmy wears on his back, is a plume of three ostrich feathers, Arg., enfiled by a coronet, composed of fleur de lis and crosses, pattee or alternately, and motto, "Ich Dien." Jimmy's racing colors will be light blue and white. The blouse will be of blue with the heraldic device worked out in white. The cap will be white.

PRETTY FLOWERS ON EXHIBITION.

Finest Chrysanthemums Ever Seen in St. Louis and a Rich Collection of Roses and Carnations.

The flower show, like the society which is expected to attend it, will have on its best clothes Friday evening.

The Florists' Club arranged to have Friday night for the entertainment of the smart set when they fixed up the programme, and the exhibitors have saved many of their choicest offerings for the tables Friday.

The feature that will prove most attractive to-night will be the awarding of the liberal prize for the best decorated table. There will be half a dozen of these tables in competition, and the feature will be new for flower shows in St. Louis.

Messrs. Ellison & Tesson's table was one of the first to be ready for the inspection of the public Friday, and as the table blossomed under the magic touch of Mr. Robert F. Tesson many ejaculations of delight were heard from the crowds of handsomely dressed ladies who were intently watching the operation.

A handsomely polished oak table was first placed on the tanbark floor. This was partially covered with snowy doylies and traycloths. Not all of the polished surface was covered. Then handsome silverware and sparkling pieces of cutglass were arranged on the table, which was being spread for a course dinner. The table was a dream before a single posy was placed on it. After the decorations were finished no pen nor artist's brush could do it justice in attempting a description.

The color scheme for the table is yellow and pink. The center vase is of yellow orchids, the Oncidium Flexnosum. This vase is set in a bed of royal ferns which the florists call Odianui Farlense. At either end of the table is a vase of pink orchids, the Dendrovien Philanopsis. These are set in fleur de lis of ferns and the fern beds are sprinkled with lily of the valley, giving a snow effect. Worked in among the ferns and lily of the valley and the Syperpidium, a beautiful pink orchid with its matchless waxlike bloom.

The regular flower show tables have on their choicest clothes to-day. The displays of chrysanthemums are especially fine. A. F. Bauer, who has charge of E. G. Gill & Co.'s exhibit from Richmond, Ind., has an especially creditable display. His most interesting mum is the Jennie Falconer, a very large bloom with a frowsy top. It is of Japanese origin and is not grown extensively in America. It is a bright yellow in color and the petals are wax-like in appearance. During the afternoon Thursday Mr. Bauer's vase of Mrs. Perron mums attracted great attention and every one predicted they would take first honors. The Mrs. Perron could not stand the heat that was turned into the Coliseum and she hung her head and was forced to be content with third place.

L. H. Releig, who is a regular attendant at the St. Lou's Flower Shows and who is in charge of Nathan Smith & Son's exhibits from Adrain, Mich., reached St. Louis Thursday evening and will compete for the big chrysanthemum prize Friday night. He has a vase of 50 assorted chrysanthemums that are wonderfully beautiful. The Modesta and Eugen Daillzdonze are his leading yellow blooms. The Western King, Mrs. H. Weeks and Mrs. Jerome Jones are his favorite whites. Silver Cloud is a pink and yellow and is as delicate in its coloring as is a sunset rose. The Sunstone is his bronze offering, while he relies on the Nyanza for his red.

Mr. Reisig is just from Indianapolis, where the Flower Show is in progress. He was surprised at the big improvement made by the St. Louis florists over former years. His Western King, his leading white mum, is only about half grown and if left uncut for two weeks longer would reach perfection. Mr. Reisig says the vases used here for big displays of mums are too small and too much of the foliage is lost in crowding them in the vases.

The roses are not going to allow the mums to bear all the honors and their choicest representatives will adorn the tables to-night. Nearly every exhibitor will have a vase of American Beauties. The Kaiserina Victoria Augusta, another beauty will be on hand. So will the Bridemaid, La France and others.

Mrs. Vesey's roses and carnations took every premium for which they were entered yesterday. For the four best roses her Bridemaid, Bride, Pear and Meteor were easy winners. Mrs. Vesey's Jupiter carnations are wonders. Thursday night a handsomely dressed young woman approached the carnation table. She admired the beauty first and then leaned over and inhaled the fragrance. The odor was almost overpowering. She asked one of the attendants what perfume was used to give so strong an odor and how it was placed there. The querry pleased Mrs. Vesey, who replied that if she could make such a perfume as Jubilee gave out freely her fortune would be made. There is no objections to spectators smelling the carnations but they must not touch them.

STRAUS-EMERICH OUTFITTING CO. 1121 TO 1125 OLIVE STREET.

MR. TAYLOR ON SPAIN,

EX-MINISTER DELIGHTED A LARGE AUDIENCE AT THE UNIVERSITY CLUB.

WHY THE WAR WAS BEGUN.

An Argument to Show It Was Inevitable and That England Saved This Country From European Interference

Hon. Hannis Taylor, former United States Minister to Spain, lectured before a large and distinguished audience at the University Club Thursday night. He spoke briefly but concisely on the Cuban question and the attitude of this country towards Spain in the peace negotiations.

The address was highly interesting and frequently punctured with enthusiastic applause.

Mr. Taylor prefaced his remarks with the statement that he had been induced to stay over one night in St. Louis at the invitation of George D. Markham of the University Club.

"I was in St. Louis but once before," said Mr. Taylor, "and that was a great many years ago. I had been informed that Edward Freeman, the great English scholar and historian, was to deliver an address in this city. I had read his works and was more than anxious to personally interview the author, whom I had never seen.

"Upon arriving here I found Freeman in the auditorium of the Museum of Fine Arts. He was rehearsing for his lecture. He had a red handkerchief around his neck and was in anything but elaborate costume for public exhibition. He accepted my advice to appear in a spiketail coat and a shining white linen shirt."

Mr. Taylor declared the war with Cuba was not because Spain had oppressed the Cubans, nor as many intelligent persons seem to think, because of the Maine, but as the result of causes beyond the control of any human power. He cited the fact that from the beginning of the nineteenth century the Latin natives had gradually lost rulership over their colonies in the new world. He cited figures showing that Spain had lost 7,200,000 square miles of territory since 1800 and that France has not 100,000 miles outside of her own dominions, and that Cuba and Porto Rico would be eventually annexed to the United States was inevitable.

Mr. Taylor told an amusing story about a champagne supper with several prominent Spaniards shortly after his introduction into office.

"One of the dons," he said, "asked me how I like Spain. I replied 'It is a grand country, and I feel perfectly at home here. I never enjoyed a place more in my life.' I told them in glowing terms that Spain was just like my dear old southern country. One of them asked why? 'Well,' I said, 'You folks have grand wine banquets, stay up late at nights, have a general good time and get to work late in the morning, care little for business and couldn't build a steam engine if inspired with the genius of Stevenson.' They saw the point about an hour after I had gone."

Mr. Taylor said the war with Spain did not come like a storm cloud, as many statesmen claim. He insisted that the United States had ample warning that trouble with Spain could not be averted.

"And were it not for England, the nations of Europe would have crushed and humiliated the United States in the late crisis."

"COURTSHIP" A SUCCESS.

The Philomathean Society of St. Michael's in Dramatic Roles.

The Philomathean Society of St. Michael's Parish gave a successful rendition last evening of the three-act comedy "Courtship" at the School Hall, Eleventh and Benton streets, before a large audience. Each member of the cast was particularly efficient and the judgement of the critics reflected credit upon the young folks for their energy, patience and praiseworthy talent.

The same play will be presented Friday eevning and doubtless the attendance will test the hall. The cast includes Angus P. McDonall, P. Sheedy, M. J. Coakley, Thomas F. O'Meara, P. D. Lonergan, John P. Coakley, Phil T. Abbott, Katheryn Kavanaugh, Libbie Owens, May Hourston, May Feldt.

After the play last night the cast members were entertained with an excellent banquet at the home of Mr. Matt P. O'Reilly, 917 Benton street. A dance will follow the entertainment Friday night.

DEATH OF A LINEMAN.

ANOTHER WORKMAN KILLED WHILE IN THE MAZES OF THE YARD-ARMS.

FELL HEADLONG FROM A POLE.

His Skull Fractured and His Death Followed Quickly—Some Mystery About His Name.

Another Bell Telephone Company lineman fell from a pole Friday morning and expired soon after he reached the City Hospital.

There is some mystery concerning the man, whose name is registered at the City Hospital as Charles Furiberin, on the police records as Fulleazerett and at the Dispensary as Fulleverett. On his left arm are tattooed the initials "H. C. G." Supt. Johnson of the Bell Company could give no information concerning the victim.

"He is one of those single men who come and go, and has not been in our employ long," said Johnson.

Furiberin was working on a cross-arm on a pole in the alley, rear of No. 4051 Washington avenue. In some manner a shock was given him, and it caused him to let go of the arm, and he plunged headlong towards the alley pavement.

There was no one near the unfortunate man at the time, other members of linemen's gang being scattered on the tops of poles east and west of the scene of the accident.

Women in near by houses saw the man fall and word was conveyed to Officer Cotter of the Seventh District, who secured a city ambulance, the Bell company's contract with St. Mary's Infirmary to care for its sick or injured employes having expired recently, and it was not renewed.

When Furiberin reached the City Hospital it was found that his skull had been fractured, the breaks extending up and down the skull and at the base. The 20-foot fall had almost shattered his head, yet he lived 10 minutes after he reached the operating table.

HE GETS NEW SHOES.

A BLONDE MAN SIX FEET SIX INCHES TALL VICTIMIZING MERCHANTS.

Julius Schlagel has been selling shoes for 30 years. For a long time he has been doing business at 3023 Kossuth avenue. In these 30 years he has had many queer excustomers to deal with, but the one with whom he dealt Thursday night was the queerest.

It was about 6:30 o'clock. The gas was lighted within and the street in front of his store was shrouded in darkness. The door was opened and a stranger entered. Mr. Schlagel went forward to wait on him. The stranger was at least six feet six inches tall. He was as slim as a rail. He wore well worn clothes, a long blue overcoat and a black slouch hat. He was a blonde and smoth shaven.

"I want to get a pair of nice shoes for Sunday," he said. "I want something pretty nice and I've got the price."

After delivering himself of this speech he went to the door, opened it and expectorated. Then he returned and inspected the shoes that the shoe dealer had brought down from the shelves. The usual preliminaries were gone through with and the lengthy stranger, after finding a $5 pair that suited, guessed that he had better try them on.

He got the left shoe on and after stamping on the carpeted floor said that the shoe was a little tight, but that didn't matter. He guessed he had better try the other one on. And again he went to the front door and spit a larger spit. He returned and put on the other shoe.

"They are all right," he said. "Now I want to buy another pair for every day. I want good, heavy ones." Once more he stepped to the front door and deposited a quantity of tobacco juice in the street. When he returned he looked at the shoes Mr. Schlagel got down.

"They are not heavy enough," he said, and he walked carelessly to the door again. This time he didn't spit, but he split out on Kossuth avenue as fast as his legs could carry him. He ran east. Schlagel saw that he had been duped and he started after him. He didn't overtake him.

"I guess I might have caught him if I had kept running," said Schlagel, "but I wasn't sure I wanted him. He was over 6 feet tall, and if I had caught him I might have got the worst of it. I could better afford to lose the shoes than be killed by him."

John J. Kleiblock, shoe dealer at 2623 Salsbury street, also had dealings with this lengthy shoe thief.

The programme was slightly varied here. The stranger wanted boots, not shoes. He selected a handsome morocco pair valued at $8. He tried them on. They fitted. He wasn't chewing tobacco this time.

An imaginary team was hitched in front of Kleiblock's place. The imaginary horses started away. The long stranger sprang to his feet.

"Whoa, there, Bill," he yelled at the top of his voice, as he made a dash for the door. In an instant he was out on the street and was chasing madly west on Salsbury street. Kleiblock ran out, too. He didn't see any runaway horses, but he did see the stranger and his $8 boots disappearing. Then he saw that the horses were imaginary and he had been worked.

Schlagel and Kleiblock have related their experience to the police. Now Capt. O'Malley's men are looking for smooth-faced men, 6½ feet tall, wearing new boots or shoes.

Havlin's.

One more matinee at Havlin's this week. You will have an opportunity to go to "Chattanooga" and return in time for supper.

"Daughters of the Poor," a play full of thrilling scenes, will follow "Chattanooga" at Havlin's.

Asked to Capture Santiago.

Local police are under instructions to look out for Santiago Morphy of Mexico, who is wanted there for forgery and embezzlement. Information from Mexico is to the effect that the fugitive is in St. Louis. He is 24 years old and is supposed to be living in lavish style in St. Louis.

Imperial.

The attendance this week at the Imperial has been exceptionally good and the managers are satisfied with the production of "Carmen." Miss Seligman is pleasing in the title role. "The Silver King," a play of another variety, will be on next week.

THE POLICE WAKE UP.

THEY HAVE ACTUALLY ARRESTED TWO MEN SUPPOSED TO BE BURGLARS.

Found in the Robber Den.

- Massive gilt clock.
- Two silver sugar togs.
- One pearl-handled silver carving set
- One dozen silver fruit knives.
- One porcelain painting.
- One statue, figure of man on horse, holding a spear.
- One dozen silver table spoons.
- One pair gold cuff buttons.
- Three gold stick pins.

Sixth District policemen unearthed what is believed to be a robbers' storehouse and rendezvous Thursday night at 4619 St. Lou's avenue.

De Moss is under arrest, charged with burglary, and locked up with him is John Ewing, allas Arthur Willis, negro, of 4314 Kennerly avenue. He is believed to be a partner of De Moss.

These two negroes have been under police surveillance ever since election night, when a daring burglary was committed at the home of Mrs. Esther Getz, 4602 Morgan street.

The burglars looted Mrs. Getz's dining room, literally stripping the place of silverware. The property they carried away is valued at several hundred dollars.

After loading the silverware into a sack, the burglars started to ransack other rooms in the house, but in doing so aroused Margaret Davis, a servant. She screamed and the burglars fled. From the description given by her, the police traced the crime to De Moss and Ewing.

Much of the silverware found in De Moss' house is supposed to have come from the Getz dining room, and it is held at the Sixth District station for identification.

De Moss and Ewing are silent and sullen, but the police say they have a clear case against them. The Getz burglary occurred shortly before 12 o'clock Tuesday night.

THANKSGIVING WARMING SOCIETY.

Eight Little People Who Will Give a Home Bazaar at the Residence of Mrs. Dr. Seidlitz for the Benefit of Two Deserving Families.

In the block on Lucas avenue, betweend Leonard and Channing avenues, live eight little people in whose hearts burns the divine fire of true charity. They are:

Emily, Georgine and Oliver Lucas, ranging from 8 to 12 years, 3319 Lucas avenue.

Sarah and Lawrence O' Neil, 7 and 9 years old, 3309 Lucas avenue.

These little men and women compose the Thanksgiving Warming Society.

They propose to drive the demon cold from two homes during this winter, and they have taken an unique method of doing it.

Saturday afternoon and evening they will hold, at the home of Dr. George N. Seidlitz, 3333 Lucas avenue, a fair and entertainment, the proceeds of which will be used to purchase coal for the deserving poverty-stricken families.

The philanthropic idea was conceived by the children during the summer. Their papas and mammas encouraged it and they found in Mrs. Seidlitz a willing helper.

Since the summer months the little girls have been busy as bees making all manner of pretty things to be offered for sale at the fair. They have made with their little fingers dolls' clothes, candle-stick shades, lamp shades, tidies, doilies, picture frames and scores of other pretty things.

Besides this work the little girls and the little boys, who in the making of pretty things are rather lost, have been busy selling tickets. The tickets are 10 cents each, and admit the bearer to the entertainment, and entitle him to be served with a cup of chocolate and wafers. Lucas avenue and cross streets have invested largely in tickets and it was indeed a hard heart that could resist the appeal of baby eyes and chubby fingers working for such a good cause.

The fame of the movement has spread abroad and the great retail stores of the downtown district have contributed to the warming fund. A committee of tots went to them.

"Barr's divved us two dollars," said one mite, "and Mr. Nugent divved us a dollar, and we're going to get something from Mr. Crawford and Mr. Scruggs and Grand-Leader and Famous."

The entertainment and fair is now all arranged. It is doubtful if the Seidlitz home will hold all the patrons. And the managers are expecting a quick sale at good prices of all the articles offered.

The entertainment will consist of music, recitations and dancing by the children. Miss Gracie Mink will recite, Miss Margaret Seidlitz will recite; Miss Georgia Lucas, a demure miss of 12, will do classic poses, for which she is famed her neighborhood over, and Master Freddie Mueller will speak a piece. The two O'Neill children have been called out of the city, unexpectedly, and will not be present, but they have done great service in the sale of tickets and contributions of pretty things for sale.

The identity of the poor families that are to profit by this infantile charity work is a profound secret among the children, who do not believe in exposing the recipients to any publicity. Nobody will know that the tons of coal that will be delivered at their doors were not purchased with their own money.

All the people living in the vicinity are deeply interested in the project. Especially is this true of the parents of the little ones. Mrs. Seidlitz has taken upon her shoulders much of the responsibility for details that the little ones could not manage.

"The children have done most of the work, though," she said. "They have sold the tickets and made the pretty things, and to them belongs all the credit. If we raise too much money to supply these two families with coal for the winter, the surplus is to be given to the Salvation Army Rescue Home. The children will be so glad that the Post-Dispatch is to make mention of their work, as it is sure to increase the receipts."

HE LOST HIS SISTER.

HERMANN SALIN, LATE OF HAMBURG, IN GREAT DISTRESS AT UNION STATION.

WEPT AND TOLD HIS STORY.

His Sister Was Separated From Him in New York, and He Thought She Had Come to St. Louis.

A neatly-dressed young man with a Teutonic caste of countenance, walked nervously up and down the Midway at Union Station Friday morning. He wore a troubled look.

Now and then he would stop at the eastern train gate and peer anxiously along the burnished steel tracks in the great train shed. Several times he stepped inside and boarded an incoming train, but he always emerged apparently more disconsolate than ever.

At last he drew out his handkerchief and burst into tears.

The distracted man turned to the gentleman and in a voice choking with emotion, said:

"I've lost my sister."

He said he was Hermann Salin, a native of Hamburg, Germany, and explained that he lost sight of his sister, Emma, on the streets of New York.

Salin is about 25 years old, speaks English fairly well. He is afraid that some accident has befallen his sister. Amid tears he told his story.

"I was in business in Hamburg," he said, "but thought there were better opportunities for a thrifty man in America. Times got very hard in the old country and I had little more than passage fare for myself and sister. I wanted Emma to have the best I could afford, so she took second cabin, while I got a steerage ticket. We left Hamburg for St. Louis Oct. 28.

"Every day the captain used to allow me to go up and see her awhile.

"At New York we were detained for quarantine inspection and were taken to shore in small boats. Those in the first and second cabin were landed in the dock. All was hustle and bustle on shore and nowhere was my sister to be found. The following morning I located her. In the afternoon we went around near the big dry goods stores and we were separated in the crowds. I notified the authorities, but they didn't find her.

"Wednesday night I took a train for St. Louis, hoping to find my sister here. We have relatives at 3690 South Broadway. Sister can't speak English and I don't know what may have happened to her. Her railroad ticket reads through to this city and I cannot understand why she is not here. "Emma is only 17 years old."

A GREAT CAMP FORMED.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 11.—The Knights and Ladies of the Maccabees are here in State convention. All of the grand officers and about 150 delegates are in attendance.

Ninety-five of the 125 camps in the State are represented. State Commander R. B. Anderson presided. The main question considered was the establishment of a great camp for the State of Missouri. This was finally carried, and the order will govern its own affairs. A membership of 5000 in the State is necessary for the formation of a great camp, and the order now has 5800 members in the State.

Officers of the great camp elected are as follows: Commander, R. B. Anderson of St. Louis; Record-Keeper, A. Lipper of Kansas City; Finance Keeper, R. C. Marquand of Chamois; Physician, Dr. V. O. Bonham of New Franklin; Sergeant, C. A. Syndel of St. Louis; Master of Arms, G. F. Williams of St. Louis; First Master of Guard, Fred Davenport of Kansas City; Second Master of Guard, Eugene Wright of Jefferson City; Sentinel, A. P. Morrison of Warrensburg; Picket, W. A. Finch of Brunswick; Representative to Supreme Tent, Dr. G. E. Scrutchfield of Macon; Alternate, E. D. Wollam of St. Louis; Past Great Camp Commander, J. E. Hough of Chillicothe. A reception was given the delegates at the Executive Mansion last night by Gov. and Mrs. Stephens.

DEATH OF AN HONEST MAN.

Ex-Councilman James Ashworth Is No More.

HIS DEATH OCCURRED AT THE CITY POORHOUSE.

HE ONCE REFUSED A BRIBE OF $3000 TO VOTE FOR A RAILWAY FRANCHISE.

BLINDNESS OVERCAME HIM WHILE AT WORK.

He Quarreled With His Only Son and in His Old Age Went to the Poorhouse and Has Died There as a Pauper.

The cause of death was apoplexy.

He had gone to the Poorhouse last spring after a quarrel with his son, Bridge Ashworth, 4419 Blair avenue.

The old man claimed he was ordered away by his son, but this the son denied, declaring the old man left in obedience to a fanciful idea that he was no longer wanted at his son's home.

James Ashworth at one time cut quite a figure in the affairs of the city. He lived in the far northern part of town. He accumulated wealth and was honored with election to the City Council.

But fortune forsook him. Gradually he lost what he had, and in his latter years became dependent upon his son, Bridge Ashworth, who is a paralytic, but who was in his active years a steamboat engineer. Bridge acquired some property, including the home at 4419 Blair avenue. The old man lived with them. There were frequent bickerings between the father and his son and daughter-in-law. The old man was blind and a great deal of trouble. Old age had brought to him many queer turns of disposition, and the troubles that arose were of frequent occurrence. The old father went to his neighbors for consolation, telling his troubles far and wide. He received a great deal of sympathy.

One day the quarrel was more bitter than usual and the old man left the house. He wandered about the streets several hours and finally encountered some friends, who listened to his story and took him to the City Hospital.

He claimed it had been made very plain to him that he was no longer wanted at his son's home, and that he had gone away, never to return. He wanted to be sent to the Poorhouse.

His son, an old man himself, and almost helpless with paralysis, and his son's wife admitted there had been quarrels, but denied they had ordered him out. They claimed he had taken offense without real cause and declared he might return to their home if he wished. The old man's anger, however, was genuine and he carried out his intention to go to the Poorhouse. He went and there he stayed until he died—a pauper.

James Ashworth was born in England. He came to America when a youth and settled in St. Louis. He designed and built the first steamboat turned out at the Carondelet dockyard and the model was such a good one that he had all the work he could do. Later he worked as a millwright. He had become more interested in the amelioration of the condition of the laboring man and in 1886 was elected to the Council as an independent. He introduced several bills for the benefit of laboring men, and refused a bribe of $3000 to vote for the Cass Avenue and Fair Grounds Railway franchise. He found municipal government too corrupt for the participation of an honest man, he said, and did not attempt to gain re-election.

He worked after this in the sugar refinery, but in 1872 received an injury which eventually destroyed the sight of both eyes.

Thirteen children had been born to him, but they all died, but one. Then followed the faithful old wife, and James Ashworth was thrown upon the charity of his only living child, Bridge.

He lived at his son's home until it became so unpleasant he could no longer stand it. The immediate cause of his departure was the charge by his son that he had written anonymous letters abusing his son's wife. The old man said piteously that he had never before been accused of dishonesty and he could no longer remain under the same roof with the son who had made the charge.

STOP CROWDING CARS

RESOLUTION OFFERED IN THE BOARD OF HEALTH ASKING FOR LEGISLATION.

THE PARIS PLAN APPROVED.

Dr. Hughes Wants a Law to Prevent Street Cars Carrying More Passengers Than Have Seats.

If the Board of Health takes the action contemplated by a resolution which it adopted at its meeting Thursday evening an ordinance will be introduced in the Municipal Assembly making it an offense for street cars to carry more people than can be seated.

The matter was brought up by a resolution introduced by Dr. C. H. Hughes, one of the members.

It urged prompt and efficient legislation toward the remedy of the evil of overcrowding. It said in part:

"We hold that the people have sanitary rights which even transportation companies should be bound by law to respect, and among these rights the right of healthy street cars is imperative.

"We recommend that a law be passed, with adequate penalties attached to avoid miscarriage of justice, requiring companies that have city franchises to discharge the reciprocal duty to the people of providing seats and car accommodation for all who may desire to ride in their cars.

"We suggest the Paris plan of posting cars as 'complete' or full when the seats are all taken, and the providing of other cars with seat accommodation to immediately follow."

The resolution also recommended legislation, with an adequate appropriation, for the sanitary inspection of street cars.

It is Dr. Hughes' idea that all cars should be disinfected with fresh air antiseptics and ozonization after crowded trips nights and mornings.

The resolution also recommended legislative action relative to the sanitary inspection of Pullman and Wagner sleeping cars. He thinks such inspection might lead to "a more legitimate and less inordinate profit might ensue to these companies if a proper amount of cubic space for health were allowed passengers in these death traps, misnamed palace sleeping cars."

The resolution was adopted without discussion. It now rests with Health Commissioner Starkloff whether such an ordinance is to be introduced.

GOOD ROADS CONVENTION.

Nearly One Thousand Delegates Expected Here Nov. 21.

St. Louis will be invaded Nov. 21, 22 and 23 by an army of good roads advocates. On those dates will be held the Transmissisippi Good Roads and Public Improvements Convention at Masonic Hall.

Every railroad in the country has made a one-fare rate for delegates to the convention, and about 1000 delegates are expected to attend.

The arrangements for the convention have been in charge of William H. Moore, an enthusiastic good roads missionary. Mr. Moore secured the special rate from the railroads at Chicago Thursday.

The object of the convention is to inaugurate a non-partisan campaign of education for good roads, better streets, improved sewerage and practical use of tramp, vagrant and prison labor.

In addition to the discussion there will be an interesting exhibition of road and street machinery, horseless carriages, culvert pipes and bicycles.

A large number of distinguished men will attend the convention and participate in the discussions. Mayor Jones of Toledo, who has just announced an interesting programme of municipal reform, will read a paper. It is hoped that Gov. Pingree of Michigan will be present. The Governors of Wyoming, Oregon and Colorado are booked for addresses. Large delegations from western cities will attend.

A similar convention, the first, was held in St. Louis a year ago.

This convention will be much larger in number and in the scope of its work than the one last year.

THEY REMEMBERED THE MAINE.

PURSUING THE BOARD.

CITIZEN FROECKMAN IS STILL ANGRY ABOUT THE COLLINS STREET POLLING PLACE.

WANTS THE BOARD CITED.

He Declares the Election Commissioners Acted in Contempt of Court and Should Be Punished.

Wm. A. Froeckman of 823 North Fourth street is not done with the Board of Election Commissioners. Last week he made them move the polling place of the second precinct of the Fourth Ward, and now he wants them punished for contempt of court for not carrying out fully the instructions.

Before Judge Spencer Friday morning, the motion was made to have the Election Commissioners cited for contempt.

The motion is supported by affidavits of Froeckman and William W. Becker.

The first fight was on the ground that the location of the polls, at 430 Wash street, was not convenient to a majority of the voters of the precinct, and that the neighborhood was not all that was desirable. The case was contested, but Judge Spencer ordered that the booth be moved to a more centrally located building, in a quiet, orderly neighborhood. Voting in that precinct on Tuesday was done at 1014 Collins street.

The affidavits filed Friday state that a worse neighborhood than that part of Collins street could scarcely be found. That it is the retreat of thieves, burglars and thugs, and Mr. Froeckman swears that a Republican challenger was chased away from his post of duty and was obliged to seek safety in another building. It is claimed, and sworn to, that a great majority of the respectable element of the precinct remained away from the polls because they claimed it was too tough and from fears of personal violence.

It is also stated that a number of good citizens, fearing to walk openly up the street, came down the alley in the rear of 1014 and passed through a grocery store onto the street within a few steps of the booth.

The allegation is that the polls were located there for political effect.

The affiants claim that the order of the court, wherein it was specified that the place selected should be in an orderly, respectable neighborhood was grossly violated, thus showing great contempt for the court.

Judge Spencer will probably pass on the motion Monday.

THE WINNER DIDN'T WIN.

An Election Bet That Proved a Boomerang in Payment.

Thomas McGovern of Russell avenue has for a neighbor Henry Letts. McGovern is an Irish Democrat and Letts a German Republican. Since the election they do not speak.

They wagered on the result of Tuesday's balloting, the loser to wheel the winner two miles in a barrow. Lette hired a band and urged the crowd to jeer McGovern, as the latter was paying the bet. This made McGovern mad and he and Letts fought. Then McGovern jumped on a car, leaving Letts to wheel the barrow home. This he did, through a cheering crowd.

THEIR HEARTS WERE TENDER.

Now They Are Hardened and William Becker Is in the Holdover.

William Becker will have to answer four charges of fraudulently obtaining money. He was arrested on complaint of Mrs. S. P. Pirou of 5962 Easton avenue. She told the police that a year ago Becker boarded with her. One day he came to her in great distress. He asked for $6 to finish paying for his engineer's license, or, he said, he would be arrested. Mrs. Pirou did not see the young man again until Thursday. He was standing at Broadway and Mound street. The lady called a policeman and had him arrested.

He was later identified by Thomas Corcoran of 4309 North Broadway, Dr. H. M. Roberts, 4005 North Broadway and James Duvall, 1010 North Broadway, all of whom had saved Becker from "arrest."

EX-VOLUNTEERS PREFERRED.

Recruits Are Plentiful for Key West and Huntsville.

Recruiting Officer Sweet has in the past ten days sent 66 cavalrymen and artillerymen to the front to fill gaps. They are mostly men who have seen service in the Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska volunteer regiments, which class is given the preference.

The artillerymen are sent to Key West to man the ten-inch disappearing rifles, and the cavalrymen go to Huntsville, Ala.

WILL HAVE "A BULLY TIME."

Eight-Year-Old Clyde Simpson Taking a Long Journey.

Clyde Simpson, an 8-year-old traveler, arrived at Union Station from Rometown, N. Y., Friday morning. He is en route to Omaha, Neb., on a visit to relatives. The youngster's papa is a traveling man, and Clyde says his "mamma died a long time ago."

Barney Frauenthal was mistaken in counting upon young Clyde asking him a multitude of questions.

"Maybe I ain't more than a kid," said Master Simpson, "but I know as much as he does. I'll bet dad can teach him the time of trains. You bet I know how to make connections."

A messenger boy quizzed Clyde about the tag on his arm, which read: "Clyde Simpson, Rometown to Omaha."

"Oh, I don't need that," retorted Clyde, with youthful indignation. "I'm only wearing it for grandma's sake."

Then the lad drew a long breath and said, gleefully: "Say, I expect to have a bully time with the cowboys in Nebraska."

ST. MICHAEL'S MISSION.

Two Weeks of Religious Oratory and Services of Song.

One of the most interesting missions of recent years in the Catholic Church of St. Louis will be inaugurated in St. Michael's Church, Eleventh and Clinton streets, Sunday morning, Nov. 27, at 10:30 o'clock.

It will extend over two weeks and the brightest orators of the parochial clergy have been selected to deliver the sermons.

The first Sunday, at 10:30 a. m., Father M. T. McCabe, the rector, who is noted for his mastery of English, will speak. The first week will be devoted exclusively to the women of St. Michael's, and, in fact, all of the other parishes of the city, and the second week will be given over to the men.

The speakers for the first week will be: Sunday, 8 p. m., Father John Tracey, curate of St. Lawrence O'Toole's Church; Monday, 8 p. m. Father Thomas Cooney, rector of St. Mary's Church; Tuesday, 8 p. m., Father J. T. Foley, rector of St. Cronan's Church; Wednesday, 8 p. m., Father James J. McCabe, rector of the Sacred Heart Church; Thursday evening, Father P. S. O'Reilly, rector of the Cathedral Chapel; Friday, 8 p. m., Father Patrick Dooley.

The same speakers will occupy the pulpit the same evenigs of the second week. Miss Tessie McCabe, a well-known musical artist, aided by a large choir which includes some of the most prominent voices of the city, has prepared a rare musical programme of sacred song for the various evenings.

INSANE ASYLUM CAKEWALK.

Fred Ziegenhein, the Mayor's Son, Won a Prize.

Two hundred inmates of the City Insane Asylum watched a cake walk at that institution Thursday evening.

Dr. E. C. Runge, the Superintendent, and several attaches of the asylum and visitors, were the contestants. Prize cakes were won by Fred Ziegenhein, son of the Mayor, and Miss Frances Mitzenfeld. Booby prize were given to Dr. Meyer and Miss Kate Rogers.

The insane spectators greatly enjoyed the entertainment and applauded the walkers with much hooting, whistling and stamping of feet. They were well behaved and their applause was never ill-timed.

HUNTING TRIP CUT SHORT.

Col. R. C. Kerens Must Serve as a United States Petit Juror.

Col. R. C. Kerens will not accompany First Assistant Postmaster-General Perry Heath and several other prominent administration officials on their Southern fishing trip.

As he was about to leave the city to join Mr. Heath a Deputy United States Marshal served on Mr. Kerens a summons to appear in the District Court for service in the petit jury. Mr. Kerens' case was stated to the court, but Judge Adams refused to excuse him.

AGAIN A FREE MAN.

Albert Comte is again a free man.

He was acquitted in Judge Klein's court of the charge of murdering Andrew J. Hanna in the basement of the Silver Grill restaurant on Feb. 9.

Hanna was found that morning unconscious on a coal pile, with his skull fractured and a bloody hatchet lying near him. He died at the City Hospital and Comte was indicted for murder in the second degree.

Comedietta at Benton.

Forest Park Council, Royal Arcanum, gave an entertainment Wednesday night at Benton Hall, Benton Station, the feature of which was an original comedietta, "A Happy Pair," in which Miss Octavia Sigrist and S. Olchavoy gave a clever rendition of their parts. Miss Josephine Deffrey also appeared in a monologue.

PRIVATE YOUNG IMPROVING.

In a Serious Condition, but Hope of Recovery Entertained.

A dispatch from Kansas City, Mo., states that Corporal Charles M. Young of St. Louis, who was assaulted there Wednesday night, is improving, but is still in a serious condition. An operation was performed on his head.

Young was a corporal in Company C, Fifth Regiment, which was mustered out of the volunteer service at Kansas City Wednesday.

The assault occurred that night in a saloon and Harry Ragsdale, a notorious tough, who was bartender in the saloon, is under arrest.

Young was found on the sidewalk unconscious, and his skull fractured. He was sent to the City Hospital. He recovered consciousness and made a statement.

Young said he was on his way to the theater and dropped into the saloon to get a package of cigarettes. The bartender had none, but offered to send the negro porter for them. Young gave the porter a $20 bill. The porter returned later and denied that Young had given him any money. Young tried to find a policeman and failing demanded the money of the bartender.

He says the bartender struck him on the head with a beer bottle. He had $40 when he entered the saloon and this was taken from him.

Young is 33 years old and his wife is the daughter of Rev. Wesley J. Johnson of Kansas City.

JUST MISSED A SCENE.

Capt. Isaac N. Miller and W. J. Berkley Exchanged Fierce Compliments.

The Board of Public Improvements sat an hour and a half Friday morning listening to a few score property owners who were for or "against" the reconstruction of the streets upon which their property fronts. Most of them were for the improvement of other streets, but "again" the improvement of their own. The usual reasons were given.

The only incident out of the ordinary was a little discussion between W. J. Berkley and Capt. Isaac N. Miller. They were interested in the improvement of an alley between Maryland and Berlin avenues, from Taylor to Euclid avenue. Capt. Miller wanted it. Mr. Berkley did not.

Mr Berkley said Capt. Miller wanted it so that he could rent some "little shops" at the end of it. Capt. Miller took exception to the disrespectful manner in which Mr. Berkley spoke of his little shops. He remarked that he would not stand it.

Mr. Berkley suggested that he sit down on it. Capt. Miller started up. "I will sit on you," he cried fiercely.

He made a move to carry his purpose into effect, but friends stood between them and preserved the peace.

ROBBED BY WOMEN.

Frank Huntsman Paid Dearly for His Trip to the Bad Lands.

Frank Huntsman of 2128 Olive street, reported to Night Chief of Police Pickel a rather unusual experience Thursday night. He says he entered Sporting House Row on Chouteau street and was left alone in a second floor room with two women. The women, he says, pounced upon him unawares, and while one of them grasped her bony fingers around his throat, the other deftly lifted $50 from his pockets.

It all happened so suddenly that resistance was useless, and rather than make a fight Huntsman quietly left, depending upon the police for relief.

Marie Scofield, Maggie Russell and Dot Corby are in the holdover pending investigation. Matron Gilbert searched the women, but found no money.

HORSE LOST A NEW SHOE.

Olive Street Cable Came Near Being Wrecked Because of It.

Coal Dealer William Skelletts' horse lost its shoe in the cable slot on Olive street near Seventh at 10 a. m. Friday. Horse and shoe parted company so quickly that for a moment Skellett did not notice why his horse suddenly began limping.

Watchful Officer Dreon, who is stationed at that corner, saw the source of trouble, and leaping into the middle of the street waved his cane in time to flag an approaching Olive street cable train, which would have been wrecked on the obstruction a few seconds later.

"That shoe has been on my horse's hoof only 20 minutes. I just had him shod," said Skellett, who is president of the coal company that bears his name.

ROBBED A SOLDIER.

An Unpatriotic Burglar Took Victor H. Gordon's Clothes.

Victor H. Gordon, a discharged soldier from Company A, Third Missouri Volunteers, was the victim of a merciless robber who visited his room in Hotel Windsor, Sixth and Market streets, Thursday night.

The robber took everything the soldier had, including a new suit of citizen clothing, an overcoat and $25 in cash. The police have a clew which will probably result in an arrest.

WHY MANY WERE LATE AT WORK

Collision Between Red and White Cars at Twelfth and Morgan.

The Mound City line had a new motorman on duty Friday morning about 7 o'clock to whom the broken platform on his car will serve as a warning that the Citizen's line motormen have the right-of-way at Twelfth and Morgan streets.

The Mound City man kept on going, regardless of the approach of the white car and in a jiffy two loads of passengers crowding aisles and rear platforms received a jar that caused them to remember the Maine.

There was no damage beyond the smashed platform on the red car. If the employers of any of the men who rode on the latter car and who reached their places of employment tardily doubt the excuses given. They are referred to the motorman for further particulars.

CIGARETTES ARE BARRED.

Prisoners in the Holdover Mustn't Smoke Them.

There is consternation in the Four Courts holdover.

The prisoners have been deprived of cigarettes.

This is by order from the Police Department, and the holdover turnkeys are under instructions to rigidly enforce it.

The principal reason for the order is that opium is frequently smuggled into the prison in cigarettes. It is an easy matter to insert a pill inside of the cigarette wrapper, the tobacco hiding it from view. Opium and morphine have many times been smuggled to prisoners this way, and Chief Campbell doesn't propose that it shall occur again.

IN A QUEER PREDICAMENT.

Kirkwood Town Board a Tie, and Nobody Wants to Be Mayor.

The new Town Board of Kirkwood will be organized Saturday evening. The chairman is virtually the Mayor of the town and the position has been a much-sought for honor.

This year it is different. No member of the board can accept it without sacrificing his party. There are six members, equally divided on the proposition to re-establish saloons in the town. The "wets" won the day Tuesday. The Mayor has no vote in affairs of municipal legislation and the one who takes the office will leave his faction in the minority on the floor and helpless, so long as the other three stick together.

COLONY FOR CUBA.

Colored People From Kansas Will Settle Near Santiago.

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 11.—Kansas will furnish the first colony of immigrants to settle in Cuba from the United States. John T. Veney, a colored Baptist preacher, well known in Topeka, has made arrangements to make a settlement of colored people near Santiago and expects to start from Topeka with about thirty families in twenty or thirty days.

For several years it has been a cherished dream of Mr. Veney to colonize a settlement of his race in some Southern clime. Since the war has closed he has turned his attention towards Cuba and has concluded that there are more inducements for his project in that country. He has been over the region and understands it. His idea is to establish a town on the high land above Santiago which he will call Topeka.

WHEAT.

The markets opened ⅛@⅜c lower on weaker cables. New York and Chicago recovered the loss early, but in the local pit prices were about steady at opening figures for an hour or more. News of large export demand explained a later advance at Chicago and New York and this market followed, but up to 1 o'clock prices were only up ½c from the opening and only ⅜c above yesterday.

McIntyre & Wardwell, the large New York exporters, wired late that 1,000,000 bu had been taken for export. J. W. Sanford had a wire that 70 loads had been worked and probably it would reach 100 before night, while 50 loads were said to have been taken at Philadelphia and Baltimore.

Local pit range:

December opened at 68⅛c a, lost ⅛c, recovered it, then declined to 68c, from which it advanced rapidly to 68⅝c, then ranged from 68⅜@⅝c, advancing to 68⅝@¾c b and remaining steady between those figures for some time, then fell to a range of 68½@⅝c, closing at 68⅝c a.

May opened at 68c, was next 67⅞@68c, advanced to 68⅛c and ranged along there, then dropped to 67⅞c, from which there was a steady advance to 68⅝@¾c b, followed by a slight falling off, which was quickly recovered, ranged then from 68⅝@⅞c, but again advanced to 68⅝@⅞c and closed at that bid.

CORN.

The market opened a little lower, partly on lower cables and partly on the somewhat bearish government crop report, but later prices recovered up to yesterday's close, and the market was very steady.

Receipts of corn at primary points to-day were 682,000 bu, as compared with 461,000 bu same date last year. Shipments, 539,000 bu, compared with 155,000 bu same date last year.

Receipts of corn at St. Louis to-day were 94,342 bu, compared with 58,690 bu same date last year. Of these 537 sacks and 37 cars were local, compared with 976 sacks and 29 cars same date last year.

Spot Grades—At the call 31c was bid A. or V. for No. 2 and 31½c for No. 2 white, none offered. In the sample market prices some sales were made a little below yesterday's quotations.

Local pit range:

December opened at 30⅝c a, declined to 30¼c, ranged half the morning between 30¼c and 30⅜c, then advanced to a range of 30⅜@30½c, finally reaching 30½c flat, closing at 30⅜@30½c a.

May opened at 31⅝@31¾c and ranged between 31¾@31⅞c, the rest of the session until just at the close it advanced to 31⅞@32c b.

OATS.

The market opened dull and unchanged, May later advancing ¼c above yesterday's close. Very little business was done in the local pit, one sale at the call being about all.

Receipts of oats at primary points to-day were 345,000 bu, as compared with 463,000 bu same date last year. Shipments, 206,000 bu, compared with 435,000 bu same date last year.

THE FLOUR OUTLOOK.

The Modern Miller, in its review of the flour market, says:

"Flour trade has been dull all the week, and while mills generally have run, there are exceptions and stocks have accumulated in many instances. Prices have been slightly, but not materially reduced and on the declining wheat market both foreign and domestic, buyers have been cautious. In Southeastern markets the demand has been sluggish and prices have not been wholly maintained at last week's figures, but reductions have been small. Southwestern local trade has been fair at about the prices ruling last week. Foreign trade has been small except on orders sold ahead. Weather conditions have been favorable to growing wheat, which maintains the excellent prospects noted last week."

Wall Street.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Enormous blocks of all the leading railroads and specialties were taken at the opening transactions on the Stock Exchange. Advances ranged all the way up to 1¼ in Burlington and Sugar. The grangers and Pacifics, Atchison preferred and leading Southern stocks were taken in blocks of 1000, 2000 and 3000 shares. Sugar, Rubber, People's Gas and Tennessee Coal, among the industrials, were strong. The market was very active, embracing a long list of stocks.

The tone of the trading became heavy, but offerings were rather light, the market lapsing into dullness on the decline. Toward midday prices showed an advancing tendency again under renewed buying of the grangers. Sales of stocks to noon, 402,731 shares.

The bond market was active and strong, with a wide variety of issues traded in.

Very heavy profit taking caused some irregularity in the first hour, but the hesitancy in most cases was only momentary, and prices again forged upwards. The coalers which had been laggers in yesterday's movement, received good support, Reading first preferred touching 41 and Delaware & Hudson par. Business was unusually animated, and included pretty much everything in the list, but price movements were small after the opening rise. The grangers showed the chief effect of the realizing, but held steady after the decline.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—Official receipts yesterday, 35,436; shipments, 3549. Cattle—Receipts, 7518; shipments, 3033. Sheep—Recipts, 94,441; shipments, 3899.

MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—Weak cables and unexpectedly heavy receipts in the Northwest made wheat weak to-day. Trading was small in volume. The decline in prices occurred in the few minutes' trading following the opening. Shorts were good buyers on the break and prices held steady at the decline. Liverpool at 1:30 p. m. was ⅝@1d lower and Paris also showed 5 centimes decline. Minneapolis and Duluth receipts were 1340 cars, compared with 1042 last week and 821 a year ago. Chicago receipts were 139 cars, 48 of contract grade. English consols were strong and the seaboard reported an almost total lack of demand early. Advices were to the effect that foreigners were in the market again. Cash demand here was reported good. This served to steady speculative prices. The weather West to-day was perfect for movement of grain. Opening prices for May ranged from 65¼c to 65⅛c, compared with yesterday's closing price of 65⅝c. The market soon rallied to 65⅝c and eased off again later to 65⅜c, where it held.

Corn was lower on a light volume of trading. The Government report, suggesting total yield of 1,926,000,000 bu, was fully as bearish as expected. Receipts were light—198 cars, due to recent storms. May opened ⅛c lower at 33⅜@⅜c, advanced to 33⅜@33½c and eased off later to opening figures.

Oats were very dull, but steady at a slight decline. Easiness was entirely in sympathy with other grain markets. Trading was of a scalping nature and in small lots. Receipts were light—106 cars. May opened a shade lower at 24⅛@24⅜c and held at that price.

Provisions were dull and lower, with grain markets and on lower hog prices. The market was fairly well supported at the decline and some improvement in prices took place. January pork opened 5c lower at $8.85 and advanced to $8.92½. January lard opened a shade lower at $4.90@4.92½ and held at $4.92½. January ribs opened 2½c lower at $4.55 and advanced to $4.57½.

WOUNDED A BRAKEMAN.

Trainman Nordman Shot in the Arm by a Robber.

FERGUS FALLS, Nov. 11.—Expressman McGrath, the messenger and fireman were compelled to sit in a row on the bank under cover of menacing guns, while the highwaymen were at work. While attempts to blow up the large safe were in progress Conductor Smith sent Brakeman Otto Nordman back to flag possible trains. The robbers fired at him and a bullet passed under his arm, cutting the flesh, but not inflicting a dangerous wound. Nordman was later picked up by a handcar and taken to Carlisle. One of the robbers proposed to rob the passengers, but the others refused to go into the cars, as several men had taken the alarm and were prepared to resist. Frank Allen came down from Rothsay to-day and reports that the depot safe at that place was dragged into the middle of the floor about midnight, but the would-be robbers were frightened away. The attempt to rob the bank at Battle Lake and the robbery of the elevator agent at Evansville during the past week, were evidently the work of this same gang.

IN BEHALF OF TEMPLE.

Appeal Made to the State Department by a Consul in Mexico.

NOGALES, Ariz., Nov. 11.—Southern Arizona is evidencing great interest over the arrest of James Temple by the Mexican authorities on the charge of killing a Mexican. The shooting was done on American soil and an American jury exonerated Temple.

He is held in jail at Nogales, Mexico, but will be sent to Magdalen for trial, unless the State Department acts quickly and secures his release.

Consul Darnell has protested against this move, and has telegraphed the State Department at Washington to the effect that Gov. Corral of Sonora has replied to his protest against the trial of Temple for murder, and that he refuses to recognize it; that the people of Arizona are deeply incensed. He added that he believes there will be trouble here unless the department acts promptly.

KILLED BY A PANA DEPUTY.

Taylorsville Laborer Suffers Vengeance of a Wronged Husband.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., Nov. 11.—Jasper White, a day laborer, was shot and instantly killed about 9:20 o'clock last night by Enoch Parks, another laboring man. Parks lived in town, but had been acting as a Deputy Sheriff at Pana. White had been paying attention to Mrs. Parks during her husband's absence. About three months ago Parks went to his home one night and found White in the house, and beat him with a club, warning him that the next time he caught him there he would kill him. Last night Parks made his word good.

He caught White in his house and shot him three times with a 45-caliber revolver, the same gun he carried when on duty at Pana. Parks gave himself up to the police, and is now in jail.

MUDDLE IN THE COUNTING.

Pettis County Candidates Ran Nip and Tuck for a Clerkship.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SEDALIA, Mo., Nov. 11.—The Board of Canvassers struck a snag in canvassing the Pettis County returns to-day. On the face of the returns, R. H. Gray was elected County Clerk by a majority of eight over R. N. Lower, Republican. In proceeding with the count it was discovered that the judges of Hughesville Precinct No. 2 had failed to sign the pollbooks, as required by law, and, in consequence, Clerk Lower refused to certify the returns to the Board of Canvassers. Gray had a majority in this precinct, and if it is thrown out, as Lower claims that it should be, it will result in Lower's election by a majority of three. There is considerable excitement among local politicians, and unless the precinct is counted for Gray the Democrats will insist that Precinct No. 1 of Sedalia, where the negroes cast a large Republican vote, be thrown out on the grounds that a large number of votes were openly bought and paid for by the Republican managers.

ASSASSIN PROUD OF HIS DEED

"Long Live Anarchy!" Cried Lucchenni When Sentenced for Life.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Nov. 11.—Before sentence was passed yesterday on the Italian anarchist, Luigi Lucchenni, who stabbed and killed Empress Elizabeth of Austria on Sept. 10 last, the Italian admitted that he came to Geneva in order to kill the Duke of Orleans; but, he added, he arrived too late. The prisoner then remarked that in spite of this the Duke of Orleans would be killed within a year. The prisoner also said that if he had possessed 50 francs on the morning of the assassination, instead of killing the Empress of Austria he would have started for Italy, with the intention of killing King Humbert. He added:

"It does not matter, however, as another will kill Humbert shortly."

Lucchenni was sentenced to rigorous life imprisonment. When the full penalty allowed by the Swiss law was imposed, Lucchenni laughed, and cried loudly, "Long live anarchy!" and "Death to the aristocracy!"

The crime, he said, was premeditated, adding in one instance: "I did my utmost to make the stroke fatal."

He declared that his motive was found in human suffering.

"My doctrine," he frequently reiterated, "is that no one who does not work should be allowed to live."

The jury was absent only twenty minutes.

ROARING FORK IS POLLUTED.

Concentrates From Zinc Ores Cause the Poisoning of Many.

CARBONDALE, Colo., Nov. 11.—Six section men employed on the Rio Grande Railroad have been poisoned by drinking water from the Roaring Fork River and two are in a critical condition. A child, which died in convulsions, is believed also to have been poisoned. An analysis of the water showed that it contained much arsenic and other poisonous minerals. These come from the new concentrators at Aspen, in which zinc ores are treated, the tailings being dumped into the river. Hundreds of people in the valley who have used the river water for domestic purposes are ill, and many cattle have died after drinking the water. Ranchers are taking steps to stop the pollution of the stream.

BULL FIGHTERS IN ALARM.

They Ask the President to Not Interfere With Their Trade.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—At a recent meeting of the professional bull-fighters in Havana it was determined to forward to President McKinley a petition that after the beginning of the American control there be no legal steps taken to prevent them from carrying on their amusement. The bull-fighters declare that their livelihood depends upon their ability to continue in their chosen profession and that it would be a sore disappointment to the people of Havana if their chief entertainment were forbidden.

The gladiators will state that Gen. Lee, during his residence in Cuba, never missed an opportunity to witness a fight. They also declare that all Americans who have witnessed a bull fight are greatly pleased with the performance.

ALGER SAYS HE IS HAPPY.

Regards Tuesday's Vote as a Personal Vindication.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Russell A. Alger, Secretay of War, said to the Post-Dispatch correspondent to-day:

"The Republican victory of Tuesday was a positive indorsement of President McKinley's administration. It was more than that—it was a rebuke to the mud slingers.

"Naturally I am gratified at the outcome, and, in a measure, it is a personal vindication, although it was not on trial. As Secretary of War I have tried to do my duty as I saw it, and, without using the personal pronoun, I believe I have worked hard for the interests of the soldier in the field and the soldier in the camp, and for the interests of the War Department."

POPULAR THOMPSON.

HIS NAME SO GOOD THAT IT WAS CLEVERLY FORGED BY A SMART YOUNG MAN.

CHECKS CASHED BY GROCERS.

Mrs. Thompson Thought Her Husband Had Gone Crazy, but He Was Only an Innocent Victim.

Half a dozen tradesmen have learned by sad experience just how Mr. A. L. Thompson of the firm of Cavender & Thompson, real estate agents, signs his name to checks. It cost them from $8 to $13 each to acquire the knowledge.

The swindler passed forged checks on David Nicholson, Joel Swope & Co. and A. J. Butler & Bros.' grocery.

He purchased a bottle of brandy from Nicholson, tendered a check for $15 and got $13 in change. At Swope's he purchased a pair of lady's slippers worth $2, tendered a $15 check and got $13 in change. He tried the same game on the Cannon Floral Co. and D. L. Hatton, the groceryman, but they would not accept the checks he offered. The former sent flowers on credit and the latter sent wine C. O. D. He succeeded in passing a check on Mr. Butler, the groceryman.

All these things were sent to the home of Mr. A. L. Thompson, 4451 Washington avenue. Mrs. Thompson first thought her husband was very indulgent, but finally decided he was crazy. But she accepted everything except the wine, which came C. O. D. She told her husband about it Tuesday evening, and he decided that his popularity was at the bottom of it all, and that his many friends had sent the presents.

Wednesday he was enlightened. Representatives of all the firms that had accepted the checks called upon him in a state of excitement. Payment had been refused on them. Mr. Thompson failed to recognize his signature on the checks. He proved that the signatures were forgeries, to the satisfaction of the tradesmen. He then made a round of the swindled firms and explained matters.

The new restaurant of the Lindell Hotel (entrance on Washington avenue) is now open. Ladies and gentlemen will find in this elegant resort every dainty the markets afford at most reasonable prices. Oysters and shell fish a specialty.

ELEVEN OF THE FIFTY-ONE WAITING SOLDIERS GONE TO JACKSONVILLE.

LIEUT. PORTER STILL PLAYING.

Sixth Regiment Men Unable to Reach Their Destination, Because of the Officer's Dallying.

It begins to look as though patriotic young men who want to go to Cuba in the service of Uncle Samuel will have to pay all their own expenses, and perhaps a royalty to the Government for the privilege.

Ever since Nov. 1, as told in Sunday's Post-Dispatch, 51 soldiers, ex-members of the First Missouri, who were transferred (on paper) at their request to the Sixth Missouri for service in Cuba, have been waiting in St. Louis to be transferred to Jacksonville, Fla., where Col. Hardeman's regiment is encamped.

It was told how Lieut. Porter had been here three weeks to make arrangements for their transportation, without apparently making any progress, and how many of the men had been living partly on charity, reporting at the Armory every day, and receiving only promises, which were always broken, from Lieut. Porter.

Thursday Lieut. Porter made the first definite statement to the men. It was a statement calculated to chill their patriotism. He told them they could all go to Jacksonville if they would pay their own fares.

Thursday night 11 of the 51 men left for Jacksonville with tickets in their pockets for which they had paid themselves. They were young men whose families live here and who were so anxious for further military duty that they were willing to borrow the money to get where they could break back into the army.

The remaining 40 men either cannot or will not pay their own fares and stand a fine chance of being retired to private life.

Their situation now is peculiar. They are in the army and they are not in the army. They are in the army, but they cannot get to where the army is. Some of them are quartered at the Barracks. Others are at their homes, and still others, who have no homes here, are knocking about the city. None of them can go to work as long as they are "in the army."

It is probable that as soon as the slow-moving machinery of the War Department can be set in motion the forty soldiers will be discharged.

The men lay the responsibility for their predicament at the door of Lieut. Porter. They say it is his dilly-dallying and negligence that has brought about the situation. At the outset the Government and the State locked horns about which should pay for transporting the soldiers. It resulted in both refusing. Then the line officers of the Sixth Regiment agreed to pay it.

When Lieut. Porter came here he telegraphed to Col. Hardeman, it is said, that the price would be $18 a head, whereas it is only about $11. This led to dissatisfaction and general complications which Lieut. Porter took no pains to straighten out.

C. S. Hartsfeld, general manager of the National Ore and Reduction Co., of St. Louis has been removed from office by his wife, Sarah A. Hartsfeld.

Mrs. Hartsfeld is President of the company, and, according to the statement of another official, resented her husband's attempt to remove H. Meinard from the secretaryship. Mr. Meinard stated that Mr. Hartsfeld had issued a circular in Mexico stating that he (Meinard) was no longer connected with the company. The secretary says this is why Mrs. President Hartsfeld dismissed Mr. General Manager Hartsfeld.

IF BATDORF RETIRES.

First Regiment Officers Discuss a Way Out of the Difficulty.

Friday evening officers of the First Regiment will meet at the Armory at the solicitation of Charles Holtkamp, senior Captain, to discusse the future of the organization.

As long as Gov. Stephens withholds the commissions of Col. Batdorf and Lieutenant-Colonel Cavender these officers feel that the regiment cannot prosper as it ought, cannot secure State aid, nor will business men support it while internal discussion rages. It is probable therefor that Col. Batdorf and posibly Lieutenant-Colonel Cavender will be asked to retire for the good of the service.

Col. Batdorf has reported to Adjutant-General Bell that the regimgnt was ready for service as a National Guard organization and there the subject rests.

PIECE OF KINDLING DID IT.

Mrs. Kate Mayes Received a Terrific Blow on Her Nose.

Mrs. Kate Mayes is at the City Hospital with both eyes blacked and her nose badly bruised.

Mrs. Mayes exerted too much energy in splitting kindling. She got hold of a piece of tough pine. The ax was dull and it made but little impression. She became angry and let drive with all her might. The piece of pine broke in two. One of the pieces struck her on the nose.

The blood spurted in a stream. Presently the eyes began to darken. The flow of blood was checked, but Mrs. Mayes "picked it" again Thursday afternoon. The blood began to flow again. All efforts to stop it proved futile, and Thursday evening she was taken to the hospital. Dr. Sutter plugged the nose and checked the hemorrhage. Friday morning she was weak from loss of blood, but was able to be up.

AT THE PLAYHOUSES.

Roland Reed and his company presented "The Woman Hater" at the Olympic Theater last night. Reed audiences always demand a certain speech, and Mr. Reed is always obliging in that respect. After the third act he and Miss Rush were called before the curtain, she to receive a bouquet and he to talk. When she had retired with a big bunch of flowers he discoursed in his habitually happy style smoothing the audience the right way and making it laugh. Referring to the play he said "The Woman Hater" was the best piece he had ever appeared in and that he believed it the equal of the comedies that are called immortal. If it bore the name of Sheridan as its author it would live with the best of comedies, he said.

Mr. Reed is probably prejudiced in favor of David D. Lloyd's jolly comedy, but the audience last night seemed to agree with him in his estimate of the play. And it is a good comedy. It is clever; it is witty, and it is clean. Persons who saw it a dozen years ago with John T. Raymond in the leading role and afterwards with Mr. Reed playing that part, were in the audience last night and they enjoyed it as much as ever.

The company appeared to excellent advantage. Of course Mr. Reed was funny as Samuel Bundy, but Sheridan Tupper in the comparatively small part of George Dobbins was nearly as amusing, and Charles S. Abbe and L. P. Hicks were well cast as the ex-professor and Dr. Lane. Miss Rush was a symphony of pink and white loveliness as Mrs. Lucy Joy. The part by the way is the one in which Miss Rush made her debut as an actress eight years ago. Her beauty and style made her a success from the first and they have not deteriorated. It was a pleasing performance and nobody who say it will ever regret it.

"Il Trovatore" was sung in Italian Thursday night at the Century before a discriminately appreciative audience. The performance was fully in keeping with the excellent work done by the International Opera Company earlier in the week. Mme. Selma Kronold sang the role of Leonora and acted it, too. Her work was especially effective in the Miserere and death scene in the prison. Sig. Francesco Collenz appeared to better advantage than heretofore. The occasional harshness in his higher notes was not so apparent, and he received a handsome recall after the song "Of That Dark Place Fold" at the close of the third act. Sig. Virgilio Bellati's resonant bass had excellent scope in the part of Count di Luna, and Sig. Augusto Dado as Fervando made a hit in the opening song, and caused regret that his role gave so little chance to hear his fine baritone voice. Miss Louise Engel lacks the fire of the best Azucenas, but she sang her lines acceptably. The beautiful duets and trios with which the opera is replete were admirably rendered, and with the exception of one slight "break" in the anvil chorus, the chorus was all that could be desired.

To-night "Romeo and Juliet" in English will be the bill. At Saturday's matinee "Carmen" will be given, and the engagement will close Saturday evening with the double bill, "I Pagliacci" and "Cavalleria Rusticana."
